

Mulligan to Resign As Chief of Police?

Counsel Says Resignation Considered

Compiled From CP Dispatches
VANCOUVER — Police Chief Walter Mulligan will confer with John G. (Jay) Gould, his counsel, "in a day or two" on whether he should resign from the Vancouver force, the lawyer said today.

"The resignation is a subject that must be considered," Mr. Gould said. "It is Mr. Mulligan's problem but I will be there to advise him in any way."

He made the statement during an interview the day after he and the chief walked out of the R. H. Tupper royal commission on police affairs.

They quit in protest to an "indefinite adjournment" ordered by Mr. Tupper and to the commissioner's ruling that the married name of a key witness must remain secret.

Earlier Mr. Gould's cross-examination had uncovered the details of the love-life of the mystery woman, Helen Elizabeth Douglas.

The woman, who claims to have been chief Mulligan's companion for five years, last week testified chief Mulligan had told her he had $38,000 obtained from gamblers.

STATUS DESTROYED

In announcing chief Mulligan's withdrawal Mr. Gould said the Tupper inquiry was a "1935 Spanish inquisition" which already has "completely destroyed" Mr. Mulligan's "status" as chief of police.

The lawyer declared his client was "prepared to stand trial where there are rules for evidence."

The chief, on requested leave for the duration of the inquiry, will receive pay until the end of October, when his case will come up for monthly consideration by the police commission.

He was unavailable for comment today.

Mr. Gould, in announcing the forthcoming meeting, said Mr. Mulligan "is still the chief of police of the city of Vancouver."

At Wednesday's 32nd sitting of the police inquiry, which opened July 13, Mr. Gould criticized Mr. Tupper's handling of the probe, and declared:

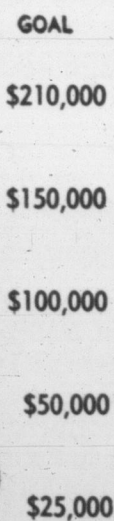

"If tomorrow you brought down an interim report in which you cleared Walter Mulligan, he would no longer be able to hold the position of chief of police."

"His status has been completely destroyed. We are prepared to take our place in another forum."

2-HOUR GRILLING

Mr. Gould's statement, climaxing a two-hour grilling of Helen Douglas, said the inquiry was "contrary to natural justice," and listed 11 reasons for his opinion.

MAINLAND MAN BEATEN TO DEATH WITH BASEBALL BAT

VANCOUVER (CP) — Martin Williams, 26, was beaten to death with a baseball bat in suburban North Vancouver today and a 16-year-old boy was under arrest, RCMP said.

No charges have been laid and details of the beating were withheld.

A-G Urged To Wind-Up Police Probe

VANCOUVER — The Vancouver Sun, in a front-page editorial today, says Attorney-General Bonner should "take action to wind up" the R. H. Tupper royal commission on police affairs "as quickly as possible."

The commission has been appointed to do a certain investigation and as far as I am concerned the commissioner is still working on that report," said the attorney general.

He declined comment on all other factors of the commission, with his statement, "I have no comment on any aspect of the probe's proceedings."

Commissioner R. H. Tupper has provided all the reason Mr. Bonner needs with his announcement that the hearings are postponed indefinitely. This was all Mr. Gould needed to lose patience. The commissioner indicated the adjournment may last months. It is indeed the "straw that has broken the camel's back" not only for Mr. Gould and his client, but for public opinion, also, the editorial says.

"It should be enough for Mr. Bonner."

LONGER THAN EXPECTED

The newspaper says "Commissioner Tupper has got himself involved in a public inquiry and a secret police investigation at the same time—a lengthier process than he had calculated."

The probe was punctuated by a suicide apparently provoked by fear of personal muck-racking. Articles contemptuous of the commission have been sold in Vancouver and the perpetrators merely scolded.

"Subsequent publication by the same people with greater apparent contempt for the commission and ordinary public decency, attacked a leading counsel in foul fashion."

"The first defence by tabloid reporter Ray Munro, his refusal to admit authorship because he might incriminate himself, passed unchallenged and uninvestigated by commission counsel."

The editorial says hearsay had gone beyond limits and that

Pearson Sure Soviets Want Peace

KARACHI, Pakistan (BUP) — External affairs minister Lester B. Pearson said today he was satisfied that Russia does not want war.

One day after finishing his goodwill tour of Russia, Pearson summed up his impression of that country in the following words:

"My chief impression is one of national collective strength and energy. It is a country with a group of strong, able men in charge, with no other desire than to be left in peace to build up their country and solve their domestic problems of which they admit they have many." (See page 5.)

U.S. Navy A-Jitter— Monty's Due Again

FIELD MARSHAL MONTGOMERY
... he'll tell them

WASHINGTON (UP) — Britain's peppery Field Marshal Montgomery is headed here again with a new explosive proposal — merge the army, navy and air force into a single military service.

The famed old soldier all but gave the U.S. navy apoplexy when he came here 11 months ago and told big audiences the day of large warships, specially aircraft carriers, was near an end. Recovering, navy officials began to defend and explain their carriers in a series of speeches still going on.

After all, the Viscount Montgomery of Alamein is second only to American Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther in command of North Atlantic Treaty forces and a close Second World War associate of President Eisenhower.

Townsend Visits Margaret's Home

PRINCESS MARGARET
... Queen Mother with her.

GROUP CAPT. TOWNSEND
... No secrecy about visit.

Romance Statement Imminent?

(AP and UP Dispatches)

LONDON — Peter Townsend paid a call tonight at the home of Princess Margaret, Clarence House. His visit strengthened belief that an announcement is imminent about their reported romance.

Townsend stayed an hour and 20 minutes.

Townsend went openly to the royal residence, fully aware that newsmen were on his trail and that his car with the red-and-white diplomatic licence plate was the most closely watched vehicle in London.

More than 100 reporters crowding round the palatial mansion saw Townsend enter just before 7 p.m.

QUEEN MOTHER, ALSO

Princess Margaret arrived at the house from her Scottish holiday this morning and Queen Mother Elizabeth arrived only an hour before Townsend.

Townsend was alone. The conference inside the residence held promise of word — one way or the other — to a waiting world on whether the couple will become engaged.

The slim 40-year-old group captain left the apartment where he is staying in Lowndes Square and drove his green Renault Fregette sedan across fashionable Belgrave to the rear of Clarence House, next door to St. James Palace.

Townsend knocked at the door of Clarence House and a maid admitted him. He stepped swiftly inside and the door closed.

POLICE GUARD DOOR

Three policemen paced up and down before the rear entrance to the residence, keeping the gathering crowds moving. Fur-hatted sentries stamped up and down the cobbled street of St. James Palace.

While newsmen and the world waited, the mist of early evening began to clear and the stars could be seen twinkling through the overcast.

FIRST IN TWO YEARS

So far as is known Townsend and Margaret had not met previously in more than two years, when the 41-year-old former royal equerry was posted to Brussels as air attaché.

Before that posting they met practically every day during a 10-year period.

Townsend went shopping this afternoon with Mrs. Wills, a daughter of Lady Elphinstone, sister of the Queen Mother.

He stayed all morning in the home of the Marquess of Abergavenny in Lowndes Square, London, where he had spent the night.

This afternoon, with police keeping back crowds of newspaper reporters and photographers, he left the house and drove away in a car. At its wheel was an attractive young woman, believed to be Mrs. Wills. He said he was going to his tailor.

Townsend, 41-year-old war hero who now is British air attaché in Brussels, arrived by air Wednesday night to begin a three-week holiday.

Tanned, smiling and cheerful, the air attaché, a divorced man and father of two sons, gave hordes of reporters a curt "No comment" to all questions put to him on Princess Margaret, with whom his name has been linked for more than two years.

PAPERS SAY DIFFERENT

But London newspapers suggest that their almost simultaneous arrival in London was no mere coincidence.

Archbishop Says English Church Must Defend Status of Marriage

LONDON (Reuters) — Dr. Geoffrey Fisher, Archbishop of Canterbury and Primate of All England, said Wednesday it is the primary duty of the Church of England to defend the status of marriage "by every means in our power."

Speaking before the full synod of the convocation of Canterbury, his statement came in reply to the Bishop of Exeter, Dr. R. C. Mortimer, who urged ecclesiastical tribunals for divorced persons who want their marriages annulled so that they can remarry in the Church of England.

The archbishop said he agrees with an archbishop's commission that a system of ecclesiastical courts would be too heavy.

Bishop Mortimer said the commission argued strongly against setting up special tribunals to deal with cases of nullity and unconsummated marriages, and commented: "I do not find those reasons overwhelmingly convincing! on the contrary, I think them rather on the side of timidity."

Professional Publicity Aid Challenged

DUNCAN, B.C. (CP) — The legality of employment of an advertising firm by the school board of District 65, Cowichan, is being challenged by the City of Duncan, said Mayor J. C. Wragg, who told councillors he had referred the question to the city's legal adviser.

The school board recently announced that it was employing a Victoria firm of professional advertisers to assist in publicizing a school loan by-law which calls for the raising of $750,000 for new schools. Cost of the services of the advertising firm was said to be $750.

Mayor Wragg said if the school board is going to spend money this week, "we will have to question its action." The councillors have expressed approval of the by-law but not for expenditures such as this.

Adenauer Improves

BONN (AP) — West German Chancellor Adenauer, ill with bronchial pneumonia, is continuing to improve, his doctors announced today. Government officials say he probably will require a long convalescence.

PRELATE'S REMARKS on the sanctity of marriage, made today in London, were given extra significance as Princess Margaret and Group Capt. Peter Townsend met him for the first time in two years. Capt. Townsend was the innocent party in a divorce action with his wife. Photo of Archbishop of Canterbury was made during his visit to Victoria last year.

2,000 STUDENTS CLASH WITH BELGIAN POLICE

LOUVAIN, Belgium (UP) — More than 2,000 students clashed with police today in a riot over Belgium's bitter schools question.

The Mayor of Louvain declared a state of emergency and forbade gatherings of more than five persons.

Police reinforcements and tough state troops were brought into Louvain from other points to help the city police struggling with the battling students.

The riot was the latest in a series which have stemmed from a decision of the Socialist National government of Premier Achille Van Acker to cut off public subsidies to Roman Catholic schools and transfer the funds to state-run schools.

HOW A PRELATE DRINKS

Full Glass for Canterbury— But Sips Only a Fraction

LONDON (Reuters) — The Archibishop of Canterbury is really a teetotaler, but says he was distressed by the current social habit of not being able to go to any gathering without "an inebriated drink at social gatherings."

Most Rev. Geoffrey Fisher confessed his dainty sip at a have to explain to his hostess that he really likes water best, the Anglican prelate said he allows his glass to be filled—but at the end of the meal it is only one-sixteenth of an inch lower. He commented: "It is no virtue on my part. It happens that I don't like it."

See where th' Mayor told th' loggers' convention that squirrels hev bin reforestin' fer us. Think I'll apply fer a squirrel management licence an' grow some mayoral timber.

If th' Tupper enquiry wuz held on a sow, it'd make a great harbor dredge.

RESCUE NEAR—Gerhardt Lozie, 27-year-old co-pilot of a plane that crashed in a lake in the Northwest Territories, hangs grimly to the edge of a wing as rescuers near him. He clung to the wing 10 days and was near exhaustion. Pilot Joseph Cermak of the four-engine Associated Airways York plane died from exposure before rescue could reach him. (CP photo.)

'HE DIED IN MY ARMS'

Grim Story of Ordeal Related By Survivor of Arctic Crash

By STAN McCABE

EDMONTON (CP)—Gerhardt Jerry Lozie, 27-year-old co-pilot who spent 10 days without food on an airplane wing in an icy northland lake, told his story in a 15-minute hospital interview today.

The former Regina pilot was brought to hospital here Monday following his rescue from a downed four-engine York transport plane in a tiny Northwest Territories lake 110 miles north of Beaverlodge, Sask.

The Associated Airways plane was ditched by its pilot, Joseph Cermak, 40, when it became lost on its return to Yellowknife, N.W.T., from a D.E.W. (Distant Early Warning) radar line freight flight to the Arctic. Cermak died two days after the plane went down.

Here is Lozie's story, as he told it from the hospital bed where he is recovering from exposure and hunger:

"When we were about 15 minutes from being out of fuel we decided to ditch. Joe was looking for a fairly good place to ditch. We had pretty good moonlight and we saw a lake and decided we would put her in there.

DIDN'T KNOW LAKE
"I radioed Yellowknife and told them. We didn't know what lake it was. We had our belts fastened tight.

"Joe made a beautiful ditch. There were two impacts. On the first, the fuselage broke. And on the second the plane went partly under water. We finally got on the fuselage. Then the plane sank and we had to go on the wing. It was misty and cold. We had no heat and we huddled together as close as possible. I couldn't get the sleeping bags out.

"Next day was sunny. We saw a plane about five miles east in the afternoon.

"Saturday, Joe was feeling despondent and began to think we wouldn't get out.

"I said, 'No Joe, we are going to survive if we believe in God.' He said 'I hope so.'

"DIED IN MY ARMS"

"At 11.30 p.m. he died in my arms. That was a pretty hard time for me too, since I was all alone. I tried to swim ashore but the water was real cold. We were about 150 feet from shore.

"On one side I saw wolves running around and I saw a couple of bears running. I decided to stay on the flap.

"After that I don't remember any more. A couple of planes passed by.

"On the ninth day, I think I saw this plane. I couldn't stand any more.

PROFITEERS WRECKING BRITAIN, SAY LABORITES

MARGATE, England (Reuters)—Speakers at the Labor party's annual conference here today claimed that profiteers are wrecking Britain's economy and that old people are starving because of the high cost of living.

The conference unanimously passed a resolution calling on Labor leaders to press vigorously for stabilization of the cost of living and a ban on monopolies and price rings.

One of the 1,246 delegates, Mrs. Mary Bredo, said the government had increased the price of bacon, tea and butter. The majority of old people in her district of Barking, London, are starving, she added.

Canada, Go-Between On A-Agency Dispute

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP)—Health Minister Paul Martin, chairman of Canada's PN delegation, is working to resolve the disagreement between India and the U.S. Since Monday he has had talks with Dr. Homi Bhabha of India, who was chairman of the Geneva atoms-for-peace conference in August, and with Morehead Patterson, President Eisenhower's special assistant who is handling negotiations for the U.S.

The agency is designed to serve as a clearing house for knowledge and technical assistance in the field of atomic energy. Under a 1954 general assembly resolution, it would negotiate "an appropriate form" of relationship with the UN.

TUPPER EXPLAINS DECISION

More RCMP Investigations Behind Probe Adjournment

(Special to the Times)

VANCOUVER — Royal commissioner Reginald H. Tupper indicated Wednesday his "indefinite adjournment" of the Vancouver police inquiry is to permit RCMP officers to investigate "other allegations."

Here is the text of his prepared statement made at the probe adjournment:

My counsel and I have given careful consideration to the time factor in this enquiry.

When I received my commission and learned what allegations were to be considered it was clear that had this been a prosecution we would not have opened the enquiry until all necessary investigations into these allegations had been made. In that case we would not yet have commenced this enquiry.

Having in mind the morale of the force, the positions of the persons against whom allegations are made and that evidence then available might not be available after a long delay, I decided to hear at once the evidence which was ready and to continue so long as the investigating team brought forward new evidence.

In the result, in 65 working days since we began hearing evidence on July 13, and 31 sittings we have heard 70 witnesses. We have made progress and I have no regrets over my decision to proceed.

The investigators have reported to my counsel and to me that other allegations are being investigated. Some of these may prove groundless, in others, evidence may be produced. They can give us no estimate of the time which will pass before they can furnish reports of these investigations.

They are enquiring into allegations of matters, some of which are more than six years old and often amongst unresponsive persons. To call witnesses piecemeal might frustrate their enquiry.

The early completion of a searching enquiry is my first aim. But it is idle to incur expense in maintaining my legal staff and those other expenses inevitable to this enquiry while waiting for further evidence.

I can only speculate upon the length of this adjournment. It will certainly not be a matter of days and not likely of a few weeks only. All counsel and interested parties will be given ample notice of the next sitting.

Circumstances may arise making it desirable to hear some evidence before we are able to proceed continuously to the end of our task. It is my hope that once we resume we can proceed without interruption.

While my counsel's retainers are suspended they will be glad to receive any communications relating to the enquiry.

They have asked me to thank all those persons who have written to them about this investigation. If, by chance, some of these letters have not been acknowledged, I am asked to assure the writers that they have all had my counsel's serious consideration.

Again I ask the public and in particular the members of the police force to communicate to my counsel any facts they may have pertinent to this enquiry and whether in support of or in contradiction of evidence already given or whether relating to matters not yet before the enquiry.

Let me repeat what I said earlier in this enquiry. No fair-minded person should speculate about its outcome. No evidence has yet been called to rebut the most serious allegations that have been made and until that evidence has been heard no just person can make any decision. Otherwise he might later have to regret having done a great wrong.

A gift to the Community Chest is really a gift to yourself. You gain as much as the other fellow.

PAN-AM ORDERS FIRST JET STRATOLINERS

NEW YORK (UP)—Pan-American World Airways today announced the purchase of 45 jet-powered airliners from American firms at a total cost of $357,000,000.

The planes will be the first jet transports delivered by American manufacturers and the first to go into regular service.

The giant jets will cut the flying time from New York to London to six hours and 15 minutes.

They will carry from 104 to 108 passengers each in de luxe accommodations and up to 131 tourist class.

KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN AND MILK

THIS GREAT COMBINATION AN AID TO

Health and Regularity

SUPPLIES THE LAXATIVE FOOD BULK OF WHOLE BRAN

A delicious dish that promotes comfortable elimination

The greatest advantage of Kellogg's All-Bran is that it corrects the cause of irregularity due to insufficient bulk.

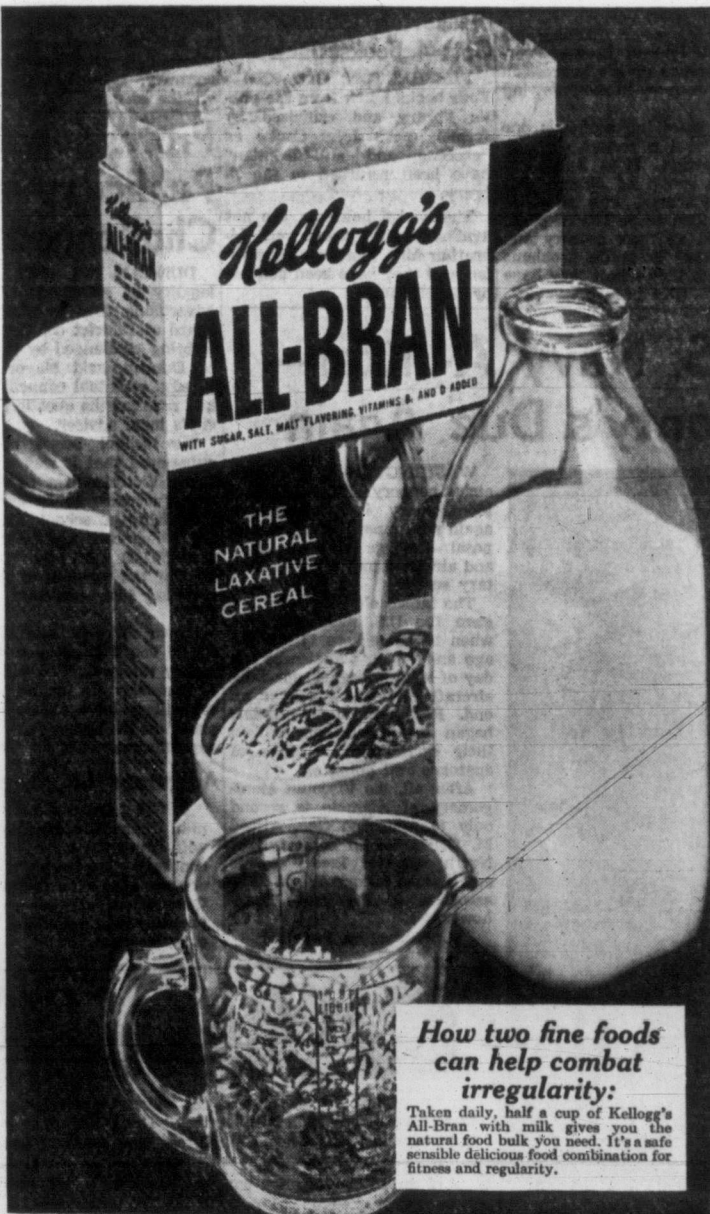

Chemical or drug-type laxatives, on the other hand, are intended only for overnight relief of a temporary stoppage. That is why the facts about one of nature's great food combinations, All-Bran and milk, will not only interest you but may even surprise you.

For instance, did you know this about Kellogg's All-Bran? It is made from the outer layers of the whole-wheat kernel. Milled for maximum effectiveness, All-Bran not only supplies natural food bulk—but is also an excellent dietary source of niacin, which is necessary for the normal functioning of the body.

All-Bran is a wholesome, good-tasting dish. And it provides a safe, natural way to improve your "intestinal tone"—so necessary to comfortable regularity.

Many people enjoy All-Bran served with hot milk as well as cold milk. But whatever your preference, be sure to get Kellogg's—the one and only All-Bran.

Kellogg's has been making and improving All-Bran for nearly 40 years. It is the original natural laxative cereal. And Kellogg's stands squarely behind it. We'll prove to you that All-Bran and milk will give you gentle, effective relief from constipation within 10 days or double your money back. That's a promise from Kellogg's, London, Ontario.

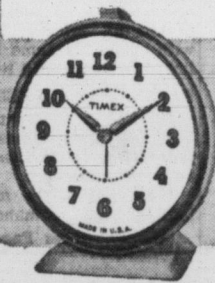

How two fine foods can help combat irregularity:

Taken daily, half a cup of Kellogg's All-Bran with milk gives you the natural food bulk you need. It's a safe, sensible, delicious food combination for fitness and regularity.

McGill, local SCE representative, check the finished product. Employee John Buckingham stacks 2,000 for Island-wide Halowe'en march.

'Trick or Treat' Gets New Twist As Children Collect for Needy

With Halowe'en still 18 days away one Saanich housewife has already prepared 2,000 "give-aways" for the sprites, sprouts and spirits who will prowls that night.

But the largesse of Mrs. W. W. McGill, 1170 Tattersall, is extended to the children of the world, and she has enlisted a horde of youngsters all over the Island to help put a new spirit in the annual frolic.

Local representative of the Save the Children Fund, Mrs. McGill, has distributed 2,000 collection cans through Sunday schools all over the Island.

She made the trip to all Island centres herself, cramming in the task in spite of a busy schedule of church work and duties of a school trustee. As well as collecting for kiddies abroad, she aims to take some of the "Hal" out of Halowe'en at home. A kiddie who is collecting donations for starving orphans isn't likely to deviate from the task to conduct mischief.

GET OWN GOODIES

Of course, the junior canvassers will carry their own bags for booty, like taffied apples which wouldn't go into the coin slot in the can anyway.

Some local Sunday school children have carried out this campaign for two years now. In 1953 there were 32 cans on the march and they yielded $156. Last year the youngsters collected $1,544 locally, by totting 864 cans.

This year's drive aims at gathering up to $3,000. It has been assisted by British America Paint Co. which donated the cans, Clarke and Stewart which gave the labels, and Hebbel Printing Company, which printed and numbered them.

Mrs. McGill points out that war and disaster has left millions of youngsters unprotected by parents and practically uncared for, in Europe, Asia and Africa.

"In Korea alone, 2,000,000 children are homeless, maimed, orphaned or hungry," she states. Their care is the work of SCF.

Spread your help through the year. Make instalment donations to the Community Chest.

Immigration Rules For Asians Changed

OTTAWA (CP)—A two-way exchange has been made in immigration regulations on entry of Asians to Canada—one tightening the rules of entry of Asian children of Canadian citizens and the other opening the door for the first time to aged parents of Asiatic citizens of this country.

The announcement was made today by Immigration Minister Pickersgill.

The only Asians now admitted are wives, husbands or unmarried children under 21 of Canadian citizens able to care for them.

That rule now has been tightened to stipulate that children will not be admitted unless both the father and mother are living in Canada or unless some of their parents emigrate here at the same time.

"This change is to ensure the maintenance of family groups which is the object of the policy," the announcement said.

The new rule on aged parents is to be an experiment for one year.

ONE LICENCE, ONE WIFE, TWO LICENCES—OH NO!

A Grand Forks couple, who acquired a surplus marriage licence, are now all straightened away but it took provincial government action to do it.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bard Cochran also will get back the $5 paid for the extra licence.

The story is pieced together like this: Mr. Cochran, planning to marry Miss Reta Agnes Easthope, received marriage licence No. 61884C.

Miss Easthope, unaware of this, also got one, No. 62716C. Each paid the $5 fee and were married Sept. 2 at Grand Forks, using the licence Miss Easthope purchased.

The provincial cabinet stepped into the matrimonial mix-up this week by passing an order-in-council cancelling the licence taken out by Mr. Cochran and ordering the $5 refunded.

Cash Grain Advances Policy Stated Soon

OTTAWA (CP)—Government policy on Prairie demands for cash advances on farm-stored grain will be announced in about a month, Finance Minister Harris said today.

He believed the government's decision will answer criticism of the administration's wheat-handling method.

He made the announcement in a political campaign address here during which he spoke of Canada's gross national product—the value of goods and services. In early July, the gross national product was running at the rate of $25,250,000,000 a year.

Mr. Harris said much criticism is being levelled at the government for its consistent support of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade and because the government is not handling the wheat problem "in the way many people think we should."

In an interview after his address, Mr. Harris was asked whether External Affairs Minister Pearson's visit to Russia had anything to do with the new wheat policy.

"I wouldn't say that," he replied. "But it will help."

The present International Wheat Agreement expires next year and talks to renew it will be held in Geneva starting Oct. 26.

In Ottawa the bureau of statistics has estimated Canada's huge wheat stocks at 992,000,000 bushels—the highest in history.

Made up of an estimated crop of 498,342,000 bushels and a carryover of 493,726,000 bushels from last year, they leave prairie farmers in a dubious position. Holding the wheat in storage over long periods of time is expensive.

Many prairie farmers are holding big stocks on their farms. Many need cash to tide them over the winter.

The market situation, however, is none too clear. The United States, Australia and Argentina—all major exporters—also have large stocks.

Canadian farm representatives have indicated they consider renewal of IWA agreements vital, and authorities in Ottawa have hinted they would compromise on price to get a new wheat agreement when negotiations begin Oct. 26 at Geneva.

The current IWA ceiling is $2.05 a bushel and the floor $1.55. Canada's current selling price is about $1.75 for No. 1 Northern.

Income Tax Laws Aid Wealthy Coupon Clippers Says Coldwell

MONTAGUE, P.E.I. (CP)—CCF leader Coldwell said Wednesday night the federal government's income tax law is giving increasing benefits to "coupon clippers" and departing from the principle of taxing those best able to pay.

Mr. Coldwell told a public meeting that the Liberal government has steadily been whittling away at that principle.

"Bit by bit the Canadian tax system has been becoming more regressive as it reflects to an increasing extent the fact that those best able to pay are able to legally evade carrying their full burden of taxation."

The statement was contained in a text of a speech issued to the press before delivery.

No Decision By U.S. Yet On Grain Pact

WASHINGTON (AP)—An agricultural department spokesman said the United States has not yet definitely decided whether it will favor a second extension of the International Wheat Agreement.

The agreement is due to expire next Aug. 1. It is designed to help stabilize world supplies and prices on the grain through a system of export and import quotas and maximum and minimum prices.

The spokesman said Agriculture Secretary Ezra Benson has expressed the view that the agreement is of no great value without Britain, a major importer, as a member. Britain dropped out three years ago when the agreement came up for its first extension.

The spokesman said this did not necessarily mean, however, that the U.S. will drop out if Britain does not rejoin.

Jet Pioneer U.S.-Bound

LONDON (Reuters)—Air Commodore Sir Frank Whittle, pioneer of the jet engine, left here Wednesday night to live in the United States. He said he was "to all intents and purposes" giving up residence in England. In the U.S. he will work on a project for a subsidiary of the Shell Oil Company, to whom he is attached as mechanical engineering specialist.

Canada's Water

THE CANADIAN GOVERNMENT doubtless has known all along that its plans for harnessing the Columbia River would please neither the Government of British Columbia nor the Government of the United States.

Mr. Bennett's objections to Ottawa's policy are well known. Now the United States has registered a strong protest before the International Joint Commission which governs rivers crossing the boundary.

The United States says that Canada's plan to divert part of the Columbia's current into the Thompson, in the region of Revelstoke, would do "very great injury" to American interests. General A. G. L. McNaughton, Canada's chief representative on the Commission, says that no such injury need be feared, and that "Canada would be entirely within its rights to develop the Columbia along the lines of its proposals."

As Canada interprets it, the treaty of 1909 permits each signatory to deal as it pleases with waters in its own territory. If its acts damage the other signatory then the injured parties are entitled to be paid damages. In various instances such damages have been paid.

But in the case of the Columbia Canada intends to commit no damage whatever. This is difficult to explain to the Americans who have established a gigantic electrical complex on the Columbia south of the border. They suppose that if some of the river's current is diverted north of the border, and prevented from reaching the United States, their water supply will be reduced and their electrical generating plants left short of power.

That is not the intention of the diversion scheme now under study by the Canadian Government. If the Columbia is dammed and part of it channelled into the Fraser system the water thus diverted will be water now wasted. It is the flood water of the early summer freshet which now is neither needed nor used in the American plants.

Whatever the treaty says, Canada could not consider any project which would damage the existing electrical installations of its neighbor. Any such attempt would be unthinkable, even if it were practical from an engineering standpoint or profitable from a financial standpoint.

There is no assurance anyway that the proposed diversion is desirable from any standpoint. The purpose of the present inquiry is to find out the advantages and disadvantages of the scheme and to weigh them. Until all these facts are thoroughly understood it would be folly for Canada to commit itself to any plan of Columbia development.

That is why Ottawa has refused to sanction the proposed Kaiser dam on the Arrow Lakes, despite the protests of the British Columbia Government. This project and all others on the river must await the engineers' measurements, must take account of costs and of markets for electricity. They must also take account of the United States' established and legitimate interests.

Mr. Pearson and the Bridge

BELIEF IS GROWING ON BOTH sides of the Atlantic that Canada may be entering upon a new role as an interpreter of one country to another.

This nation has had a traditional position as the bridge between Britain and the United States—the "linchpin" by means of which the two great powers could operate together. The current visit of External Affairs Minister Lester Pearson to Russia raises the suggestion that Canada could perform a somewhat similar function between the Soviet Union and the United States.

Without axes to grind in the international sphere, without any suggestion of leftist-leaning in national policy, with the weight of Commonwealth membership and growing economic importance to add stability to our position, a great interpretive work might be done.

The proposal has already been voiced in Moscow. Mr. Pearson's reference to the possibility of Canada acting as a "bridge" was favorably viewed by Mr. Molotov, who saw it as "a great responsibility." He added that Soviet school children are being taught that Canada is a great power.

United States comment has been equally encouraging. The U.S. State Department hopes Mr. Pearson's current visit to the Soviet Union will give the Russians "another window of understanding" on the United States.

And Washington officials see Mr. Pearson as just the man to handle such a mission.

His character and abilities are well known as a result of his service as Canadian ambassador to Washington and as president of the United Nations Assembly for a term.

The Minister is, in the words of the Washington Post, "in the front rank of world statesmen."

The possibilities of the Moscow visit are thus seen to be far wider than the immediate matter of introducing better trade relations between Russia and Canada. This project has been put under way, of course, and will be forwarded at a later trade discussion in Ottawa.

Canada's chief interest in a commercial arrangement would be to sell wheat. Russia's no doubt is to better its trade relationship with foreign countries, and by achieving a "most favored nation" customs rating increase the opportunities for selling and obtaining needed commodities to and from abroad.

It may be some time before the full significance of Mr. Pearson's visit becomes evident. Certainly it has provided major support for the so-called "Geneva spirit" which now pervades the international scene. And if it could prove to be the beginning of a new approach to co-existence between the U.S.A. and the U.S.S.R. a fresh page of world history might well be written, with Lester Pearson's name at the top.

Good Appointments

APPOINTMENTS WITHIN THE B.C. judiciary which elevate Judge Arthur E. Lord from County Court to Supreme Court and bring Mr. A. H. J. Swencisky from private practice to the post vacated by Judge Lord will be well received throughout this province.

Judge Lord has shown his capabilities in County Court and on numerous commissions where his sound judicial mind and infallible courtesy have won for him widespread respect.

Mr. Swencisky's extensive public service, particularly in hospitals, coupled with his legal background equip him well for County Court.

The Forest Lab Should Be Here

SOME MONTHS AGO THE FEDERAL Government acquired property on Burnside adjacent to Interurban Road as the site for a forestry laboratory and offices for federal forestry officials.

The plan at that time was to locate in an area highly suitable for the research work contemplated. Progress on the project advanced to the point at which the federal authorities sought rezoning of the site and were granted their request by Saanich Municipality.

Recently pressure has developed in Vancouver to have the laboratory transferred to the University of British Columbia.

On Tuesday of this week, Dr. J. G. Taggart, federal deputy minister of agriculture, accompanied by senior staff advisers from Ottawa, met interested groups in Vancouver to discuss the advisability of switching the laboratory to the mainland. Having heard representations, Dr. Taggart returned east, promising consideration of the matter and a later decision.

That means that the projected laboratory could be shifted to the mainland.

Apart entirely from the loss such a move would inflict on Victoria, the separation of the proposed new federal forestry development from the headquarters of the B.C. Forest Service in Victoria would be disastrous to a fine example of team work. Any citizen who has interested himself in forestry from a layman's point of view understands the close liaison which has existed between the provincial and the federal forestry officials here.

The association dates back 35 years to the time when British Columbia sought and received aid from the Federal Government in the field of forest entomology. Forestry experts in the federal department have continued to come to B.C. chiefly to Victoria to work in close harmony with the provincial department.

Separation of the two forces, even by so small a division as the Gulf of Georgia, would work to the detriment of this association and to the immediate disadvantage of forestry in this part of the world.

More than parochial considerations are involved in the issue. The province and the industry stand to gain by retaining headquarters and establishing laboratory facilities in the capital where easy access is available to senior officials of the B.C. Forest Service, and where complete and uninterrupted co-operation can be assured.

These are facts clearly understood by Victoria's federal member, Dr. F. T. Fairley, who supports retention of the laboratory in Victoria.

The Man Behind the Figures

SOME PRETTY MAD MATHEMATICS have been getting into the newspapers lately, but they have a method. In the politics of British Columbia and in the person of Mr. Bennett we are not witnessing merely a financial quarrel with Ottawa but the beginning of a considered strategy to capture Canada for Social Credit.

Hutchison

Mr. Bennett has made himself the chief strategist and field marshal of Social Credit's intended march on Ottawa. If the march should succeed (which for one cannot imagine) then no doubt Mr. Bennett would reluctantly consent to form a national government, just as he formed a government here after victory was assured.

His target is not any opposition party in provincial politics, since he feels confident of defeating any opponent here. His target is the St. Laurent Government in Ottawa and nothing else. His latest statements have clearly revealed that target in the sights of Mr. Bennett's gun.

He must somehow devise an issue to use against the St. Laurent Government in 1937—an issue large and complex enough to remain alive and useful for the next two years of pre-election campaigning. He must have a quarrel which will last until the polls, provincial and federal, close two years hence.

He has picked his issue and defined his quarrel. Now, we may be sure, he will pursue it with all his power of oratory and organization.

MR. BENNETT says he is disappointed with the "fiasco" of the recent Ottawa conference. That is true only in terms of finance. In terms of politics the conference must have suited him perfectly.

He can come home, more in sorrow than in anger, to tell British Columbia that it is not getting a square deal from a grasping, stingy and "weak" national government. (Just why Mr. St. Laurent is "weak" in refusing to be coerced, and in protecting the national treasury from Mr. Bennett's intended raid, I don't quite understand but we shall find out in due time. The quarrel is only beginning.)

POSSIBLY Mr. Bennett may suppose that he is raising a new issue and arranging a new quarrel with Ottawa. In fact, he is reviving and warming up the oldest quarrel of our political system. He is trying to array the provinces against the central government, to arouse local patriotism against the nation at large. This has happened many times before and will happen many times again. It is an unavoidable feature of a federal stall.

Up to this point Mr. Bennett has moved with skill, apart from his somewhat crude snub to the Prime Minister of Canada, which he is now trying to deny. But there is a grave weakness in his national strategy.

HE presents himself as the champion of provincial rights, of all provincial rights throughout the nation. He demands more money for all the provinces, but he demands a preferred position for British Columbia.

What will the other provinces think of this? How will they regard a British Columbia Government, dripping with revenue surpluses, which demands still more money from Ottawa, at the expense of taxpayers in all the other provinces, most of them poor and harassed?

One could understand the premier of a poor province leading a rebellion against Ottawa. Because he obviously has more money to spend per capita than any other premier, except perhaps Mr. Manning, Mr. Bennett is the least fitted of all premiers to lead this rebellion. He and his province are just too rich to look like Cinderella.

THAT fairy tale won't impress anyone east of Alberta. The myth of the two western Social Credit provinces in dire need of aid and eager to help the poorer provinces—so long as British Columbia gets special treatment—won't stand up to examination in the next two years.

Mr. Bennett hopes to lead a national movement and save the nation from a Liberal Government at Ottawa which has given us only the hideous spectacle of prosperity. In his eagerness, however, he is isolating himself from the other provinces. He is in danger of contracting instead of expanding his power.

Finally, though it is totally confused by the recent torrent of statistics and some misleading newspaper reports, the public of British Columbia and other provinces is getting one simple fact through its head—if Mr. Bennett and the other provincial premiers manage to extract large sums of money from the national treasury no one will pay that money but the taxpayers.

THE OTTAWA SCENE

By VICTOR MACKIE

They Gathered at the Table

NEWSPAPERMEN groping for a word to describe the outcome of the federal-provincial conference came up with the word "inconclusive." That word about summed up the situation in so far as the provincial premiers were concerned as they filed from the Commons chamber in the Parliament building after four days of speeches, bargaining and in some cases bickering.

Mackie

When the federal government unveiled its new fiscal formula for federal-provincial relations the premiers were disappointed at the relatively low returns in revenue it would provide their respective treasuries. As the negotiations proceeded the majority became convinced that Ottawa was going to raise the ante before the conference closed. They were a very surprised group when on the last day of the meetings Prime Minister St. Laurent in effect called a halt by declaring that in reality his government had made no firm offer to the provinces, merely "suggestions." That ended that.

PROPOSAL

As the premiers packed their bags to leave Ottawa for home they expressed surprise at the sudden turn the conference talks had taken. They had firmly believed that the federal government was leading up to making an offer and that this would result in some hot and heavy bargaining sessions before the conference came to a close Friday night.

Instead no offer was forthcoming and in fact the federal ministers claimed in their talks with the press that there had not been anything that might be described as a federal proposal. Ruefully the "have-not" premiers enquired of newspapermen: "When is a proposal not a proposal?" or as one premier put it, the federal suggestions were on the basis of "now you see it now you don't."

REACTION

The British Columbia premier and his colleagues were the most embittered in their reactions to the outcome of the conference. They had arrived in Ottawa hoping to negotiate higher payments for the province from the federal treasury under the tax rental agreements. They discovered to their dismay that Ottawa had devised a new fiscal formula under which B.C. would receive no increase in its revenues from the federal pot.

As a matter of fact the formula when applied under the suggested rates would mean $5,000,000 less than B.C. was getting from the tax rental agreements. But there was a floor proviso under which the west coast province and other provinces would be guaranteed the same income as they received in federal payments during the final year of the federal-provincial tax rental agreements—1957.

ANGUISH

The west coast delegation wanted no part of this new plan. They raised their voices in anguished protests throughout the conference. Premier Bennett obviously hoped that he had made an impression upon the federal authorities and that more money would be forthcoming when the delegates resumed their discussions Thursday, the fourth day of the conference. But the additional funds failed to materialize.

This led the British Columbia premier to describe the whole conference as a "fiasco." He said, "Nothing has been accomplished that couldn't have been done by letter or by sending down a clerk." His No. 2 man, Attorney-General Bonner, was equally convinced that the meetings were a flop and had died a slow death in a sea of indecision. The communiqué he described as "The official document to identify the corpse."

MISTAKE

In the beginning the secretariat of the conference had arranged the premiers around the table. The premiers of provinces first entering Confederation, were seated close to the head of the table and those representing provinces that joined later, were seated down the table. Premier Smallwood of Newfoundland, the last province to enter Confederation, was seated at the far end.

Next to Mr. Smallwood was Premier Douglas of Saskatchewan and next to Mr. Douglas came Mr. Manning of Alberta. But at the second session of the conference, Mr. Douglas had been placed ahead of Mr. Manning. It appeared that somebody had checked and found that Saskatchewan actually entered Confederation a few hours ahead of Alberta.

PRESS CONFERENCES

Several of the provincial premiers made sure that their viewpoints, expressed behind closed doors at the conference, were recorded accurately in the press by holding off-the-record press conferences. The reporters soon learned when and where to meet with certain premiers for the "briefings" on that particular province's viewpoint. As the conference progressed the press gathering became larger. But the federal government had no such briefings with the result that the province's positions received publicity while the federal government's proposals were covered by a cloak of secrecy.

As Our Readers See It

CIVILIZATION IN THE MAKING

A Christian civilization, free from all pretense, vulgarity and unnecessary restraints is in the making.

The English were among the first of nations to get humbled and have since exalted themselves by maintaining open courts and parliaments. Even Jews have held high positions of trust. The general mixture and variety there in human society has worked out tolerably well, and still is going forward.

A strong feeling that the British Isles should stand together against any possible adventure from the European continent roused hostility. It was costly. The defence of American colonies was also costly, and thought to be a losing game by those who had to suffer losses through taxation. The American colonists found excuses enough for their purposes, and should have drawn the line against supporting every sort of enmity against the English government, because of sins and poor planning in Ireland. Such mistakes of judgment seem to have been unavoidable. But now, any separate province has its own power, though standing alone is rather a doubtful advantage.

B.C. Electric—Criticism and Fact

FURTHER to my letter published Oct. 12 on the question of publicly-owned and privately-owned utilities.

Often a privately-owned company will venture where a government might have some misgivings. I have reference to the Lions Gate Bridge in Vancouver which was constructed by private capital.

If my memory serves me aright there was some criticism of the company when the bridge was being built about money being wasted, and the bridge was described as one going from nowhere to nowhere. (The government of the day should never have permitted a three-lane bridge).

For some fifteen years the bridge company lost money and got out of the red only in 1933. We have only to look at the great development that has taken place on this north shore of Vancouver which might not have been possible without private capital being spent with vision.

I should here like to comment on the public criticism of the Public Utilities Commission of B.C. Besides regulating the operations of the B.C. Electric Company it regulates a number of other electrical companies scattered throughout the province, as well as water utilities, and taxi, bus and trucking operations.

Since the end of the war it has had to grant several increases to the innumerable operators all over the Province. There have been hardly any complaints by the users at large or in the press where other operators were concerned, but on each and every occasion that the B.C. Electric Company has been granted an increase in rates in one of its various services, the people have repeatedly demanded either the resignation or the dismissal of the Public Utilities Commission.

During this same period since the war the Board of Transport Commissioners has repeatedly granted increases to the telephone and railway companies, but there has never been the same antipathy shown towards that body as there has been to the Public Utilities Commission, the people naturally accepting the upward trend of the costs of these services just as they have accepted the higher rises in food, clothing, automobiles, etc., where the increases, in many cases, have far exceeded the rise in the cost of living.

It is quite apparent that a sense of selfishness is behind these critical remarks especially when the public demands that the B.C. Power Commission take over the B.C. Electric Company. This Company is giving one of the finest transportation services in the North American Continent.

This remark was contained in the report of a transportation expert especially brought from the U.S. by the City of Vancouver for a study and report on the company's operations in Vancouver.

The B.C. Electric Company is operating a losing transportation service which is subsidized by higher electrical rates; without this subsidy, proposals for the abandonment of the transportation operations might face the people. The City of Vancouver knows of these conditions, hence its unwillingness to purchase the transportation business when it had the opportunity to do so a few years ago.

Since 1946 there has not been a single year where the operating expenses have not exceeded the revenues in the urban transportation systems both in Victoria and Vancouver. This state of affairs will continue to exist unless and until the users of electrical energy demand that the transportation service be made to stand on its own feet.

This whole matter is written to enlighten the public at large, who I am sure is not fully conversant with the problems confronting the Public Utilities Commission and only feels that its pocket book is being attacked on each occasion a raise in rates is approved.

In conclusion, I am not averse to public ownership.
D. K. PENFOLD.

'Blinking Pollyanna'

LAST WEEKEND, the younger generation's homework sent me hunting for the poems of Rupert Brooke. The poem I wanted was "The Great Lover," and the passage of it that I needed begins:

"These I have loved: White plates and cups, clean-gleaming,
Ringed with blue lines; and feathery, fairy dust;
Wet roofs beneath the lamplight; the strong crust
Of friendly bread; and many-tasting food;
Rainbows; . . ."

It set me thinking about the things that I have loved and the sort of list that I would make.

Offhand, I'd include the sturdy, dimpled limbs of tiny, healthy children; rain-soaked roofs and fenceposts steaming in the sun; the sea-sound of waves running back on a shingled shore.

In winter, I have loved the welcome warmth of an open fire on a bleak and bitter day; the golden glow of lighted windows in drab November dusk; the scent of firboughs when one gathers Christmas greens; frosty, mysterious patterns on ice-cold window panes; the black and white pattern of unshaken snow on the branches of leafless trees; ragged clouds streaming across a winter moon.

For springtime loves I'd choose the afterglow of sunsets, and fireflies black against a fading sky of almost greenish blue; the scent of slowly-warming earth; the brave green spikes of early buds; shivering snowdrops and dancing daffodils; the reddish-brown of alder tops; the gleam of young skunk cabbage in the damp and darkening wood; the first faint haze of green among the bushes; the crinkled miracle of an unfolding leaf bud; the first Easter lily still pointing upwards to the sky.

In summer, I treasure the cool breezes from the sea; the sound of water lapping on float or wharf; the scent of new-mown hay and the special scent of bracken in the cool of evenings; the silver underside of certain leafy trees; the cool green depths of river pools.

For fall, I'd think of misty mornings and golden afternoons; of rosy crabapples on a tree I happen to know and love; of isolated days of rain, warning that each golden day that follows will be extra-precious; I'd not forget meadow larks re-appearing with their young and singing in a sunny field; mushrooms, pink and pale and cool; clumps of Michaelmas daisies and the bitter, special scent of chrysanthemums; larder shelves filled once more with jars of home-made jam.

My particular list of joys is endless and most of them are free. Some are civilized. Some are primitive. Nearly all, I think, are pretty universal. And each of us, I fancy, could draw up a list of personal loves. They'd vary with our different natures. Films or plays or books might come into these lists. They might include the pleasures of the city or the pleasures of the country.

And I sometimes think that if we took the time to make such lists, we'd find that our personal worlds are vastly better than we think they are, and that nearly all of us can be rich with what we carry in our minds. Just a blinking Pollyanna. That's me!

LONDON LETTER

By WALLACE REYBURN

Swedes Glad Motbok Gone

LONDON—I've been talking to a Swedish businessman who works here in London and has just returned from a visit home to his native land. He tells me that everybody there is happy about an important change in the way of life that has just taken place.

Sweden, after 38 years of it, has just ditched state control of liquor.

Rationed drinking had been in force in Sweden since 1917. Those who wanted to purchase something to drink had to carry around a ration book called a motbok. You weren't entitled to one until you were 25.

A married woman wasn't allowed to possess one—a queer quirk of Sweden's temperance regulations and something to do with the fact that if she were a wife presumably soon she would be a mother and having a drink might have a bad influence on her children.

There was a maximum amount of liquor you could buy per month with your motbok and this amount was graded according to your income. This created a unique form of snobbery—if you were allocated a bigger ration than your neighbor you could feel a superior being.

At a meal in a restaurant, men were rationed to the equivalent in liquor of a double Scotch. Women were allowed less. This rigid state control of drinking was a failure. But it was persevered with, under pressure from the highly organized Swedish temperance groups, though it was obvious the drastic results it was having on the way of life of the Swedish people.

Things got so bad that it just had to be scrapped. For instance, statistics revealed that 40 per cent of those causing motor accidents were under the influence of drink (invariably Finnish wood spirit smuggled over the border).

Fifty per cent of Swedish criminals and 80 per cent of those convicted of crimes of violence were classed as habitual drink addicts.

"Like prohibition in America," this Swede said, "we found that trying to curb drinking produced just the opposite effect—it produced excessive drinking of the wrong sort and it bred crime."

SHOWMAN JACK HYLTON says he has an up-and-coming singer with a new gimmick that's terrific. He can sing.

DEFINITION, in the News Chronicle, of a gentleman: "Someone who can describe Lollobrigida's figure without gestures."

PETER WILSON is Britain's best-known sports writer, mainly because he says what he thinks. I heartily agree with this: "It's my considered opinion that lawn tennis players—men and women—represent as unpleasant a bunch of athletes as it has been my misfortune to mingle with. Of all the hypocritical, vain, temperamental, unsporting and thoroughly detestable public performers, lawn tennis players—with their putting and their petulance, their tantrums and their tempers, their crying and their cattiness—take the international bun."

Warehousemen Can Learn Refrigeration

Warehousemen wishing to learn more about refrigeration can now do so by taking a university extension course, W. Dennis Day, Toronto, president of the Canadian Warehousemen's Association, told a conference of Victoria warehousemen Wednesday night.

"The modern fast-freezing service provided by refrigerated warehouses is one of the more spectacular developments in the industry," Mr. Day said. "With this in mind the CWA has arranged extension courses at some eastern universities and the response has been encouraging so far."

VITAL FACTOR

Mr. Day, who was elected CWA president at its conference at Banff last July, said public warehousing is a vital factor in Canada's economy. The ready availability of vast quantities of foodstuffs all over the country would not be possible without the network of merchandise and refrigerated storage warehouses serving 11 key centres in Canada.

"Another tremendous development in public warehousing has resulted from the heavy shifts in Canada's population. Household goods warehouses and long-distance van services take care of the thousands of Canadian families who are constantly on the move."

Mr. Day was welcomed here by M. R. Williams, Victoria president, and Fred Watkins, secretary. He is accompanied by H. Cecil Rhodes, Toronto, managing director of CWA.

FLUORIDATION OK'D BUT NOT PLEBISCITE

VANCOUVER (CP)—Vancouver aldermen Wednesday approved in principle the fluoridation of the city water supply.

After the 4-3 vote, Ald. George Cunningham said "we have long, long road to hoe" before fluoridation becomes a fact.

The vote endorsed a report by the social services committee of the council. No delegations were heard and other councillors agreed with Ald. Anna Sprott that "this is not the time" for a plebiscite.

Pearson, USSR Chiefs Clash on NATO Role

MOSCOW (Reuters)—External Affairs Minister Pearson and top Russian leaders argued for four hours Tuesday night over the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

Two Canadian newspaper men who accompanied Pearson on his trip to the Crimea said he argued with Russian Premier Nikita Khrushchev and Communist party first secretary Nikita Khrushchev. The two were allowed to attend only the first 15 minutes of the talks at the country home 10 miles from Yalta.

The reporters said little else besides NATO was discussed at the meeting.

Pearson opened the conversation with Bulganin and Khrushchev by saying he was greatly impressed with the construction work he saw at Stalingrad and Sevastopol, which he visited on the way. As Pearson remarked the reconstruction must be a big financial drain, Khrushchev launched into an attack on NATO.

He is reported to have said the West intends to launch further destruction on Russia through NATO. Pearson replied that NATO is strictly defensive.

Khrushchev said it was not the first time in history something aggressive had been described as defensive. He said his "friendly advice" to Pearson was that Canada should leave NATO. Pearson replied that it might be possible to arrange this but the West would first have to ask Russia to leave certain things.

LONDON (CP)—In an editorial entitled "Canada and Russia," the Daily Telegraph foresees some improvement in relations between the two countries.

Discussing the visit to Russia of External Affairs Minister Pearson, it says the tone of the joint communiqué issued in Moscow appears to make "less remote" the possibility of more frequent commercial dealings.

If the Kremlin "were disposed to encourage peaceful intercourse," commercial air services from Leningrad and Moscow to western Canada could be established similar to those recently opened by Scandinavia. There had also been recent hints that Russia might be a customer for "part of the wheat surplus of the Prairies."

A really cordial relationship is unlikely, because of memories of

Before a new telescope-type stretcher, made of nylon and aluminum, was adopted by the Canadian Armed Forces, it got the works. They jumped on it, dropped rocks on it, tossed it out of aircraft and army lorries, froze it in ice, buried it in mud and sand. They finally gave up—and placed the order.

Its lightness and compactness makes this rugged stretcher a natural for everything from northern air-rescue work to the needs of hospital, police, Civil Defence and other authorities.

Another job for Canada's aluminum and the men who work wonders with it.

Trade Pact With Russia Far Off May Take Months of Preparation

OTTAWA (CP)—It may take months to negotiate a trade pact with Russia, Canadian trade officials said Wednesday. They said they are prepared to sit down with Russian officials at any time to explore the possibilities of a most-favored-nation agreement, but that it would be no easy job to conclude a pact.

They recalled that in the case of Japan, it took almost a full year of negotiations before an agreement was concluded in 1954.

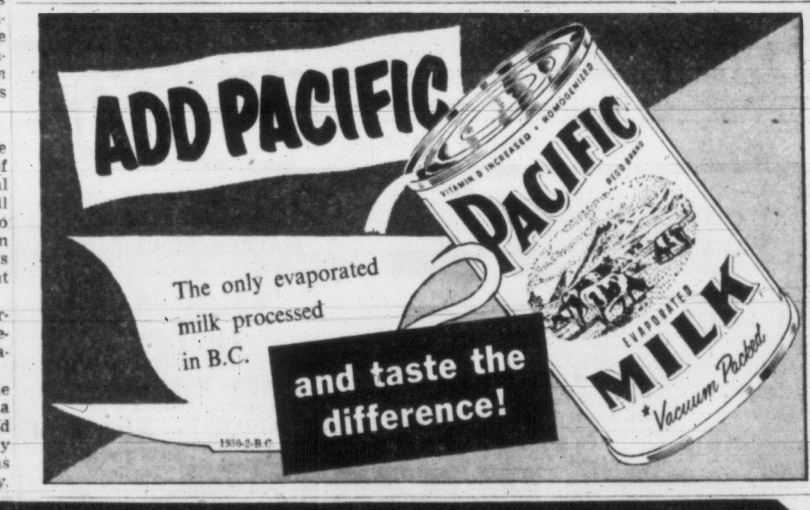

Russia is the only major power which has no trade pact with Canada. Under most-favored-nation treatment, Canada reduces tariffs to make them equal to those prevailing on similar goods imported from the United States, Britain and other big exporters to Canada. All members of the 34-country General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade have exchanged most-favored-nation treatment.

The decision to open Canadian-Russian negotiations on a trade agreement was reached in Moscow during discussions between External Affairs Minister Pearson and Soviet authorities and announced in Moscow Tuesday night.

However, Trade Minister Howe, who will be responsible for actual negotiations, said Wednesday that "nothing has been signed, decided or prepared."

He observed that Canada would be prepared to make a deal if Russia offered some "inducements," but indicated that an agreement would not unleash any great flow of goods between the two countries.

Prospects of Canadian trade with Russia are "limited," he said mostly because "the Russians pro-

Rocket, 70 Miles Up Illuminates Night

ALAMOGORDO, N.M. (AP)—A rocket, more than 300 feet long, was fired Wednesday night from a new field of upper atmosphere research Wednesday night with a spectacular pyrotechnic display.

An Aerobee rocket was sent almost 70 miles above the earth in a widely heralded sodium experiment. A gigantic red-orange train or vapor trail spread itself from the vaporized metallic sodium into a gigantic figure C with a fancy tail. It was clearly visible many miles away for more than 20 minutes.

The firing was sighted from

Technical results of the test may not be known for weeks. The air force fired the rocket to probe the presence of natural sodium in the upper atmosphere and to determine its origin, density and characteristics. The giant C wrapped itself around a glittering solo star, the bright star Vega. The sodium in the rocket—four pounds of it—started firing roughly 40 miles in the air after the Aerobee left its launching tower in a burst of flame and white smoke and a deafening roar.

North Van. Elects New Reeve Saturday

NORTH VANCOUVER, B.C. (CP)—Voters in this suburban Vancouver district will select a reeve in a by-election Saturday. The vote follows the resignation last month of Grant Currie, elected to the position last December, after a provincial inquiry was ordered into charges of irregularities in municipal affairs made by councillor John Donovan. Candidates are Mr. Currie, former councillor George Sargeant and Roy Bradley, unsuccessful last year in the election for reeve. In an election address, Mr. Bradley charged that a lumber firm with which the former reeve was associated did between $25,000 and $30,000 worth of business in the district from 1950 to now. Mr. Currie was a councillor from 1950 until last December. Mr. Currie said Wednesday he would wait for a check of the company's books before replying to the charge.

Victims Identified In RCAF Plane Crash

NORTH BAY, Ont. (CP)—It suddenly went into a tall spin. RCAF officials today released the names of two victims of a CF-100 jet plane crash in Lake Nipissing five miles south of here, Wednesday.

They were FO D. G. Bate, pilot, and FO A. N. Leaf, navigator. Both officers were married. Their families are at Cold Lake, Alta.

The twin-engine jet was flying from Cold Lake to its new base at the air force station here. It was part of Squadron No. 433, which was moving here to strengthen district air defences.

Witnesses said the big plane was flying over the lake when so rooted in caution he can't move a muscle

The WARY is a manufacturer who thinks the advertising field is strewn with booby traps. He gets buck fever swatting a fly—and won't go out on a limb an inch off the ground. He plays it so safe he's stranded on base while the competition runs away with the game. Fortunately the WARY is a rare creature. Most manufacturers realize that business is highly competitive and that half-way efforts will get them precisely that far. They believe, for example, in saturating a market with sound advertising to gain dominance; in testing markets to obtain answers to sales potentials. Naturally they use newspapers—because newspapers blanket any market with maximum impact, creating mass action at the retail level. Smart manufacturers start—and keep—their national advertising at the local level—in newspapers! All business is local... and so are all newspapers!

THREE-DAY FAST AGGRAVATED ILLNESS

Macfadden, Fantastic Faddist, Dies After 87 Fabulous Years

JERSEY CITY, N.J. (AP)—Bernarr Macfadden, 87-year-old physical culturist and former millionaire magazine-newspaper publisher, died Wednesday night in Jersey City Medical Centre.

Macfadden, a colorful exponent of strenuous and periodic fasting, died at 10:25 p.m. after an attack of jaundice which his physician said had been aggravated by a three-day fast.

Until he entered the hospital Friday, Macfadden had lived a vigorous life. In his early 80s he still flew his own plane and played tennis. On his 83rd birthday he made a 2,500-foot parachute leap into the nearby Hudson River.

Macfadden once was the publisher of such magazines as Physical Culture, Liberty and True Story. Among his former newspaper holdings were the New York Evening Graphic, the Detroit Daily, the Philadelphia News and the New Haven Times.

ONCE A MILLIONAIRE

At one time, his wealth was estimated at $30,000,000, but when he died, Macfadden was involved in court disputes with two of his three wives and had listed his income after taxes at $8,400 a year.

Born in Missouri Aug. 16, 1868, Macfadden as a sickly child became obsessed with physical culture and built himself into a rugged specimen. He also built himself a fortune.

Aside from his newspaper and magazine holdings, he owned health farms, health hotels, sanatoriums and a military school.

He married three times and was the father of a total of nine children. Seven of them survive and one son was with him at the time of his death.

Bushy-haired, wiry, five feet six inches tall, he cut a striking figure with his stunts of physical stamina and his health ideas.

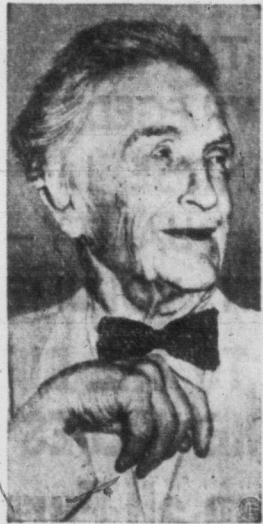

He believed in eating sparingly, took long hikes barefoot, slept on the floor, went as nude as much as possible and exercised regularly.

SHUNNED DOCTORS

He avoided doctors, spurned medicine, whisky, tobacco and white bread. He got along on five or six hours' sleep.

It was his theory that "old age is just a bad habit" and he sought to prove it by living heartily himself to an advanced age.

Macfadden said the habit of

BERNARR MACFADDEN

... fasts, foibles, furores

"three meals a day, regardless of need or appetite," was the great American sin.

MAGAZINE FLOURISHED

His famed Physical Culture magazine, dedicated to physical well-being through diet and exercise, was started in 1899 and caught on after two or three years. Macfadden then branched out in the publishing field, with the highly profitable True Story magazine. Liberty magazine and a string of detective and true romance publications. He also owned 10 newspapers.

His first wife, Marguerite Kelly, whom he married in 1901, was a nurse. They had two daughters and their marriage ended in divorce.

His second wife was Mary Williamson, a swimmer who won a London health contest Macfadden sponsored to find the "most perfectly formed woman in England." They were married 34 years, had four daughters and three sons. When he divorced her in 1946, after numerous separations, Macfadden accused Mary of "humiliating him by failure to keep her body beautiful and healthy."

His third marriage, to Mrs. Jonnie Lee, an interior decorator and health enthusiast, took place in 1948, when Macfadden was nearly 80. Mrs. Lee was 42.

At the time of his death, his third wife was suing him to collect several thousand dollars in back alimony and his second wife involved him in a court dispute to prevent him from disposing of an Englewood, N.J., residence she claimed belonged to her under a separation agreement.

Macfadden claimed he was broke. He spent three days in a Jersey-City jail when he could not raise a $20,000 bond in the alimony case a few months ago.

MOUNTBATTEN PREDICTS ATOM SUBS FOR BRITAIN

LONDON (Reuters)—Admiral Earl Mountbatten, Britain's first sea lord, said Wednesday night that the development of an atomic-powered submarine for the Royal Navy is "only a matter of time," even though the first British atomic-powered submarine will not become a reality for years hence.

"Our ideas are taking definite shape," he told a dinner meeting here and added: "Though we shall not have a nuclear powered submarine for some years her arrival is only a matter of time."

"In other words," he said, "we are going to have them."

Mainland Curling Club Refused Fund-Raising Bingo Licence

VANCOUVER (CP)—Bingo, says once inspector who would not grant Code of Canada, it can be prosecuted at a bylaw tribunal. The authority would have allowed the group to hold bingo games to raise funds. Ald. J. W. Cornett said he didn't favor "wholesale" bingo but granting the licence was one way of bringing the situation to a head.

Foxgord Pleads Not Guilty; Remand on Junkyard Charge

Plea of not guilty was entered. Mr. Foxgord, since 1952, has been in city police court Wednesday by seven times convicted for operating a junkyard, charged with a junkyard without a city permit. The charge carries a maximum fine of $100 and costs. Fines so far have been three at $50, two at $25, two at $75. Some 71 residents of the Queens Avenue area recently filed a petition at City Hall complaining of condition of the property.

Howe Will Say When He Resigns

OTTAWA (CP)—Trade Minister Howe said Wednesday night he will remain at his job "until I announce otherwise."

The 49-year-old minister was accompanied by his wife, left Ottawa for the Lakehead where he will join in festivities Friday marking his 20th year in parliament.

Asked about his future plans, Mr. Howe replied:

"I'm going to keep on doing my job until I tell the world that I am not going to do it any more."

First Conviction By Radar Spotter To Be Appealed

BURNABY, B.C. (CP)—British Columbia's first conviction on a speeding offence where evidence was provided by a radar detection unit will be appealed.

Lawyer H. A. D. Oliver said Wednesday he will contest the $15 fine levied on Vancouver motorist William Eldon Phillips who was clocked at 42 miles an hour in a 30 m.p.h. zone.

When Phillips appeared in police court in this Vancouver suburb last month, Mr. Oliver said no expert witness had been called to explain the radar operation. The lawyer also drew radar field.

IT'S MY VIEW

By BILL WALKER, Sports Editor

This is like round-up day. Or what ever became of Bert Thomas? It's just a thought, but what did?

Well, by now we're certain that every TV owner in town knows that Washington Huskies defeated Southern California Trojans on Saturday in the biggest dang football upset of the year.

We've seen the winning touchdown play four times already, and the game wasn't even televised. (Live, that is!)

And now football players are being accused of giving confidential information to the enemy.

Dean Bandiera of the Calgary Stampede is the accused. The Winnipeg Blue Bombers are the alleged recipients.

This one they'll have to prove. It's a far-reaching decision that will be resolved. For example, imagine in a game a player saying to the fellow opposite him:

"All right so you got me last time, well let me tell you something. The next play is coming right through here and I'm going to stomp on your uppers as I lead the way."

The guy'll probably leer back and say:

"Just try it! Just try it!"

Seconds later when he loses his uppers and part of his lowers, top, he can truthfully report to the commissioner:

"That man, that one there, told me where the play was going to run. SHEE, I can prove it."

And so the guilty player will be convicted. He disclosed confidential information.

Lions' Coaches Tell All!

And then you have the B.C. Lions! They are briefed well enough to have more than a passing idea where the next play is going. But that does help them? It doesn't indeed.

Matter of fact on television the other night we saw coaches Vic Linsko and Clem Crowe of the Lions giving information to the enemy.

They disclosed their defensive pattern against Winnipeg Blue Bombers. And, as they have to play the Bombers again, and stop the same plays they didn't stop last time, and explain what must be done to stop those plays, and how the defence would have to be shifted to do that—well! Isn't that disclosing vital information?

And then, of course, on most plays, the quarterback has the option clause included in his contract. That must confuse the tattletale.

If Bandiera is guilty, he is no more guilty than the Winnipeg team or the member of the team to whom he is purported to have given said information.

For if his alleged information was such that it contributed to Calgary's defeat, then the game should be stricken from the records, and the "Peg" team, for not disclosing the alleged miscarriage of sportsmanship and fair play, should be convicted as contributing to and compounding the felony.

Incidentally a note came our way the other day mourning the death of George Holmes, a resident of the city for the past 15 years. It was not our pleasure to know Mr. Holmes, but record has it that he was one of the past tennis greats of the Dominion. He was a member of Canada's Davis Cup team early in his career, and winner of the western Canada and Manitoba singles championships more than once. . . . And we can't let the moment pass without paying tribute to another who has answered the head coach's call. . . . Mrs. Helen Crowe, one of golf's most avid workers, will long be remembered for her gracious personality and devoted interest to the game she loved so well. . . .

Bays Seek to Retain Perfect Soccer Mark

Victoria West will be the intended victim of JBAA this week-end when action resumes in the Victoria and District Football League division one.

JBAA, who lead the division with two wins and no losses, will attempt to extend their undefeated streak against Wests Saturday at Athletic Park. Heaneys and winless Esquimalt meet Sunday at Heywood Avenue Park.

In second division action, Brodies Bakery and Tillicums meet Saturday at Beacon Hill Park. Sunday, Butlers meet Dutch Wanderers at Central Park, and QOR tangle with Duncan in Duncan.

All games start at 2:30.

The astonished track and field official at the London vs. Prague meet beat out the flames while the thrower, Alex Valentine, looked on in awe.

B.C. BONSPIEL HERE IN FEBRUARY

Record Season Due for Curlers

One of the busiest spots on the winter sports scene this season will be the Victoria Curling Club.

A record number of member rinks and over 50 new members will make this the liveliest season the roaring game has yet had in Victoria. Seventy-seven rinks, five more than last year, have entered the club draw in the men's division, with 12 in the ladies section.

The total of 89 rinks is seven short of the 96-rink limit set by the club, but secretary-manager Fred Madden is hopeful that the maximum will be reached by Christmas.

The full round of leagues and bonspiels will be topped by the

B.C. bonspiel, to be held at the club in the first week in February. It will mark the first time the B.C. competition has been held on the coast.

Other events, scheduled include the men's and the ladies club competition, to be held at the end of the season in March, the commercial league bonspiel at Christmas and the popular summer bonspiel.

To date, 11 leagues have been organized, and will start play Monday commencing with the men's club draw.

Two new leagues have been organized this season: the veterans' league on Tuesday and Thursday afternoons at 2, for older members of the club, and

Ferguson Scores Pair In First Boston Win

By The Canadian Press

Lorne Ferguson is off to a good start in his bid to hit the 20-goal circle in the National Hockey League again this season.

The 25-year-old left winger picked up two of them Wednesday night in leading Boston Bruins to their first win of the 1955-56 campaign—a 2-0 shutout over the hot-and-cold Toronto Maple Leafs.

Fergie started things off with a goal in the opening period and finished it with his second in the middle frame. He supplied the scoring punch and the Bruin defence provided the protection goal-tender Terry Sawchuk needed to register his shutout.

It was the only game of the night. Bruins, winless in their two earlier starts, move into a fourth-place tie with Leafs. Each has one victory, as compared to the three by the league-leading Montreal Canadiens.

The Bruin decision also dropped the idle Detroit Red Wings, defending Stanley Cup champions, into sole possession of last-place with no victories in three games.

TERRY'S FIRST SHUTOUT

Ferguson who produced 20 goals last season, poked in a rebound of a shot by defence-man Bill Quackenbush at 5:29 of the first period to give Boston a 1-0 edge. He fired a 30-footer past net-minder Harry Lumley at 16:30 of the second session to run his total to three thus far this year.

The crowd of 7,142 saw Sawchuk collect his first shutout as a Bruin, although this was a habit he developed to a fine degree during his five seasons with the Wings. Sawchuk handled 23 drives while Lumley stopped only 11.

In a pre-game ceremony, NHL president Clarence Campbell presented Sawchuk with the Vezina Trophy, awarded to the goaltender who allows the fewest goals each season. The 25-year-old Sawchuk won it last year for the third time.

No games are scheduled until the week-end. In three Saturday engagements, New York Rangers are at Montreal, the Bruins at Toronto and the Red Wings clash with the Hawks at Chicago. On Sunday it's the Canadiens at Chicago, Toronto at Detroit and New York at Boston.

ISLAND LEAGUE OPENS OCTOBER 22 AT NANAIMO

Dick Sets Puck Sights High

The gap between third and first place is a mere conversational skip-and-jump to Dick Irving, optimistic manager of the Drake Hotel team in the Vancouver Island Amateur Hockey League.

Irving's youngish Drakes finished third last season but the dapper Irving is talking first-place now, and he points to his pre-season lineup as justification for his enthusiasm.

Irving and coach Fergie McPherson, who will be a bench coach this year, having decided to call it a career, have been working their team candidates for two weeks in preparation for the season which will get under way at Nanaimo on Oct. 22 and at Memorial Arena Oct. 24.

Drakes have a solid core of holdover players coming back. The only regulars missing from last year's team are goalie Don Hamilton, who has been sent to Humboldt by the Victoria Cougars; hard-working Ken Gill, in Germany with the Canadian army; Archie Gaber, teaching school in the interior, and Gary Lawrence, rookie defenceman, who also is going to Humboldt.

Irving had hopes of signing George Hall to replace Hamilton, but the rangy Hall has gone to Kelowna to try out with that city's Packers. Instead, Irving plans to go with Fred Currah, the agile puck-blocker with the Navy team last year. As extra insurance, Drakes will have Spencer Simmonds, who is trying to make the jump from the minor hockey association. Drakes have three young, hard-hitting defencemen returning, in the persons of Curly Leachman, Walt Harris and Doug Bambrough. They will be joined by George Carruthers, a newcomer to the city who played for Nelson three years ago. Former juniors Bud Brice and Don Paulin are also trying out with the club.

Irving has eight dependable forwards returning from last year's team and two newcomers who should stick.

Bob Fowler, speedy winger who broke his arm in the first game last season, will be back in action and will be battling with the likes of Art Green, Bob Coulter, Jack Milburn, Les Corby, Johnny Makowski, Archie Courtall and Norm Kowalyk.

Orville Coulter, a long time Navy stalwart, has switched to Drakes this year and may be used on a line with brother Bob.

The other new forward is Nick Sinchuck, a chunky youngster who played last year in the Saskatchewan Intermediate League.

Irving expects his toughest opposition to come from Nanaimo Clippers, but is, nevertheless, optimistic.

"We may be a little weaker in goal, without Hamilton, but Currah is a good goalie, and we should be stronger up front. Give us a break or two and we'll be first."

Americans Ramble; Royals Lose Again

Seattle Here Friday

Seattle 8, Vancouver 3. Saskatoon 3, Westminster 1.

By The Canadian Press

Seattle Americans and Saskatoon Quakers have opened their win accounts in the 1955 Western Hockey League schedule.

Seattle, back in the league after a year's absence, trounced Vancouver Canucks 8-2 in Seattle Wednesday night after beginning the season with two losses.

The Quakers defeated New Westminster Royals 3-1 in Saskatoon. They lost their opening game before tying the fledgling Regina Regals 2-2 Tuesday.

Rookie Ross Watson delivered two goals for Seattle as did Ollie Dorohoy. The other American marksmen were Bart Bradley, Val Fonteyne, Gordon Sinclair and Bev Bell.

Seattle led 3-1 in the first period, widened the gap to 5-2 in the next frame and scored three unanswered third-period goals.

Bernie Grebinski scored on a screen shot for Vancouver and Ray Cyr got the other on a 13-footer.

Americans will make their first appearance in Victoria on Friday night when they meet Cougars at Memorial Arena.

Cougars won the season's opener between the two clubs at Seattle Saturday night, 4-2.

At Saskatoon both teams scored once in the second period.

Earl Ingardell for the Quakers and Gord Fashaway for Royals.

Les Colwill got the winner at 8:21 of the third period and Jack McLeod fired the Quakers' third goal into an open net with less than two minutes left.

The Quakers were playing a man short when Fashaway tied the score at 1-1 in the last minute of the period on a high backhand shot. Blinky Boyce drew an assist, his fifth scoring point in two nights.

Just previously Saskatoon played two men short, one of the penalties being tagged on goalie Emile Francis for falling on the puck and holding it.

Colwill's tie-breaking goal which gave the Quakers a 2-1 lead in the third period was a picture play. He took a pass from Ingardell and Dick Lamoureux on his off wing, cut across the goalmouth and gave Gathurum no chance.

The Royals pulled their goalie with 90 seconds remaining. Quaker's Eddie Kobussen grazed the goal post on a long shot and following the faceoff for "icing" Bill Folk shoved out a pass to McLeod who scored a bullseye into the open net.

The Tiger didn't knock out speedy Andrews last night, but he had him clutching groggily and ready for the canvas in the last round, after staggering a pass to McLeod who scored a three times in earlier sessions.

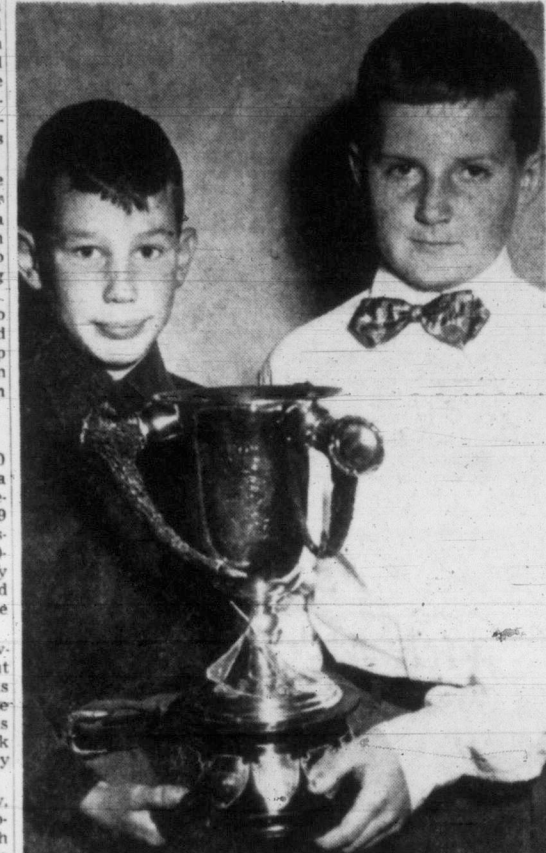

Kellert said he told his teammates at the time he thought Yankee catcher Yogi Berra had tagged the audacious Jackie in front of the plate. The umpire called Robinson safe.

Kellert was pinch-hitting at the time, and saw Jackie take in after White Ford took a double windup.

"The pictures showed Yogi had the ball in front of the plate as Jackie came in," Kellert, a former Oklahoma City Texas League star told John Cronley of the Oklahoma City Times. "I

Kellert said he hit his switch to the Cubs "gives me a chance to play every day, and that's what I want."

Diaper League's Big Wheels

Beans and buns, trophies and tall tales were the order Wednesday night as the Victoria Minor Lacrosse Association held its annual banquet and prize-giving ceremonies. Among the recipients of cups were Jackie Trueman, left, top scorer in the Diaper League and Glen Vickers, holding the Gyro Cup for the Diaper League championship. (Times photo.)

Despite Jones' personal yen for a bout with Robinson, it was learned that his handlers were negotiating for a possible clash with Rocky Castellani of Cleveland, Ohio, the third-ranked middleweight contender, in New York or Miami in December.

Record Season Due for Curlers

at Victoria Curling Club this November of Ken Watson, one of the top curlers in Canada.

Watson is expected to enter the Grey Cup bonspiel in Vancouver next month, and an effort will be made to invite him over to Victoria for a one-day "clinic" for the high school curlers.

The club opened curling Wednesday with a "guest night" for members and friends. To night through Saturday will be held the annual presidents vs. vice-presidents match.

Spots are still open for curlers, and anyone wishing to curl this season is requested to contact the club.

PLEBISCITE TURNED DOWN

Vancouver Council Rejects Sunday Sport

VANCOUVER (CP)—City council voted 42 Wednesday against submitting a plebiscite on Sunday sport to Vancouver voters in December's civic elections.

Earlier, city clerk Ron Thompson said of more than 2,000 letters received, 1,706 opposed a plebiscite. Fifteen organizations wanted a plebiscite, 14 favor of "professional Sunday" did not, five groups favored Sunday sport or a "wide-open Sunday."

Feller Kills Rumor Of Seattle Posting

CLEVELAND, O. (UP)—Bob Feller denied today a rumor he will quit the Cleveland Indians and replace Fred Hutchinson as manager of the Seattle Rainiers.

"Somebody sent me a clipping from a Seattle paper which stated Phil Rizzuto and I were in line for the job," Feller said before leaving town for a week's vacation in west Virginia.

"I can't speak for Rizzuto, but as far as I'm concerned, it's the bunk. I haven't been offered the job and wouldn't take it if I were," said Rizzuto.

Feller, who joined the Indians in 1936, has held hope for a "few more years" with the Tribe, though his services weren't much in demand during the past campaign.

He started 10 games and appeared often in relief, usually when the heat was off. But he did score a relief win over the Yankees in a game which appeared to be lost.

Feller admitted "How I feel about pitching another season . . . and how other people feel are two different things," but emphasized he wasn't ready yet to consider a managerial post.

Flyers Sign Player

EDMONTON (CP)—Coach Bud Poole of Edmonton Flyers of the Western Hockey League said on Wednesday night he has signed wingman Billy McNeill to a professional contract.

Phil's Formula Keeps Blues 'Needle' Sharp

NEW YORK (UP)—Ice hockey may not be your favorite sporting dish but a young man named Phil Watson is worthy of notice today as he tries to pump life into the long-recumbent New York Rangers with a training regime that would do credit to the marines.

The Rangers may be identified most brilliantly as a long-time member of the National Hockey League. They haven't been in the Stanley Cup playoffs in five years, haven't won them since 1939-40 and haven't taken a regular season title since the 1941-42 campaign.

Watson, taking over this season as coach, decided it was time to get tough.

His tactics make such dugout dictators as Joe McCarthy, Burr Shotton and Billy Southworth look like amiable evangelists.

RULES OF CONDUCT

First of all he instituted a set of training regulations that would do credit to the Vassar field hockey team provided the girls would stand for them. As example, get a load of these rules:

1. In bed at 11.30 on nights before games and at midnight all other times.
2. No brew "at all" during the season and players are forbidden to enter a tavern even to make a phone call.
3. No butter on toast.
4. No water the afternoon before a game.
5. No oranges on the bench or soft drinks in the dressing room.
6. No smoking in the dressing room, not even by visitors.

Any infraction costs $100 with the additional stipulation that if a player gets overweight he is fined a dollar, a pound per day for each day he remains overweight.

Needless to say, this has the players who once rode a lachrymose train jumper than Mark Twain's famous frog. Not that, off past performances, they can't do without their beer, skittles and butter.

URNS HIS BACK

"They have become so keyed up that fist fights among their own numbers are not uncommon. When one breaks out, Watson smilingly turns his back and let's them go at it."

"I want them fighting mad," he chuckles. "Maybe they'll take it out on the rest of the team in the league."

He does everything possible to needle them. When they have a poor practice session, Phil, wearing the only watch on the ice, merely sets the hands back a half hour. When they complain about two-day workouts, Watson cut it down to one-day—but twice as long.

It got them so dog-gone tense and ornery that they went out and flattened their first two opponents, the Chicago Black Hawks and the seven-time champion Detroit Red Wings.

So what did Watson do? He broke all the coaching regulations by insisting he was "bewildered" by it all and that he "didn't really think they could lick Detroit."

Ma, he he "didn't really" and possibly it was a bit of applied psychology aimed at his parched athletes. But if they don't keep winning, there probably won't be just no butter. There probably won't even be any bread for those meatballs.

BANDIERA STILL OUT, SAYS STAMP MANAGER

CALGARY (CP)—Dean Bandiera's status with the Calgary Stampeder football club remained the same Wednesday.

"Bandiera remains out," said vice-president Orville Burke, "the same as he was before our executive meeting Tuesday."

Bob Robinett, team manager and assistant coach of the Stampede, said the deadline for a protest of Saturday's Western Interprovincial Football Union game, in which Winnipeg defeated Calgary 13-12, has passed.

"The deadline for a protest, if we were going to send one in, was 8 p.m. Tuesday," Robinett said. "That time passed without our team taking action."

Tiger-Cats Protest Loss to Argonauts

HAMILTON (CP)—The Hamilton Tiger-Cats said Wednesday night they have protested Monday's Big Four Football Union game in Toronto which they lost 15-15 to the Argonauts.

Tiger president Jake Gaudaur said the club has asked Big Four president Ralph Cooper to strike the game from the record because of a ruling by referee Hap Shoudice of Ottawa. Gaudaur said he should have had the option of determining where the penalty should be taken. He placed the ball 15 yards from where it was declared dead and gave it to Argos as first down.

Gaudaur said Hamilton should have retained possession on their own 25-yard line, 15 yards from the line of scrimmage.

O'Doul's Status As Manager Still Uncertain

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP)—Cedric Tallis, 39, has been named general manager of the new Vancouver club of the Pacific Coast League.

Announcement of the appointment was made Wednesday by Brick Laws, president of the Oakland Oaks, who is moving his baseball franchise from Oakland to Vancouver because of decreasing attendance.

Tallis has been associated with the Boston Red Sox farm system for three years as general manager of the Montgomery, Ala., club in the Southern Association.

Laws declined comment on the status of Frank Lefty O'Doul, former major league batting star and field manager of the Oaks last season.

U.K. RUGBY

LONDON (Reuters)—Results of rugby matches in the United Kingdom Wednesday:

RUGBY UNION (County championships): Dorset-Wiltshire 18, Oxfordshire 13; Eastern Cheshire 13, Kent 13; Hampshire 9, Middlesex 18; RUGBY LEAGUE (New Zealand tour): Lancs. 13, New Zealanders 11.

HOTSPURS LOSE LONDON (Reuters)—The Vase soccer club, Hungarian cup holders, gained a 2-1 victory over Tottenham Hotspur, English First Division club, in an international soccer match Wednesday night.

TIME OUT! BY JEFF KEATE

"Atta boy, Junior! We knew you'd win and set a new world's record for weight lifting!"

Canada's Richest Race Goes Saturday

TORONTO (CP)—The $40,000 added Canadian championship—Canada's richest horse race—will be run Saturday, perhaps for the last time, at Long Branch race track.

More than 26 horses have been nominated, 16 of them from the United States, but racing secretary Tony Simms expects only 10 to 12 will start.

The race, over 1-3/16 miles, will have a gross value of about $44,000 and a winner's purse of $34,000. But the $300 entrance fee, payable Friday, may discourage some owners.

Resilient, winner by a nose last year over King Maple, is on hand again but the Toronto-owned King Maple will be missing. Larkin Maloney's Ace Marine, Queen's Plate winner, is also listed.

Other probable starters and their owners: Hickory Hill, Ed Rosenkrantz, Toronto; Moore's Boy, Ben Green, Toronto; Marked Game, Kennedy-Veale Stable of Windsor and California; Pacer Tiger, Mrs. Ethel Jacobs, New York; Fleet Path, Mrs. J. H. Barlow, Toronto; Freedom Pacer, Don Rice, Toronto; Pot Hunter, Conn Smythe, Toronto.

It may be the last running of the Canadian Championship at Long Branch. The track was sold last week and he had agreed to sell the track and Dufferin Park which he also owns.

Barber to Quit Circuit

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Pint-sized Jerry Barber, at 39 a veteran professional golfer, said Wednesday this will be his last year on the national tour.

Barber, winner of $18,865 in prize money this year, said he will complete in a few selected tournaments in the future but will devote most of his time to his head pro job at the Wilshire Country Club here. He also will play for the U.S. Ryder Cup team in matches with Great Britain, Nov. 5-6.

Whitey Ford of New York Yankees trailed Pierce in the American League rankings with a 2.62 average, followed by Early Wynn of the Indians at 2.82.

Friend, a 24-year-old right-hander, is the first Pittsburgh pitcher to wear the era crown since 1935 when Cy Blanton was the kingpin.

In his fifth season with the Pirates, Friend permitted 63 earned runs in 200 innings, while chalking up a 14-9 won-loss slate. He completed nine games, two of them shutouts.

Four players were in the scramble for runner-up honors with nine points separating second place from fifth place. Bob Fuhl of Milwaukee was second at 3.21, followed by Brooklyn's Don Newcombe, 3.23; Milwaukee's Warren Spahn, 3.26, and Philadelphia's Robin Roberts, 3.30.

Friend became the first pitcher on a last-place club ever to capture era laurels. These statistics were tabulated first in 1912.

The 28-year-old Pierce, in his eighth big league season, allowed only 45 earned runs in 206 innings. He won 15 games and lost 10. Six shutouts were included among his 16 complete games. Cleveland's Mike Garcia was the leader in 1954 with a 2.64 mark.

"The Orioles agree to furnish players to Vancouver with the number of such players varying according to the prevailing situation."

"In return," he said, "Baltimore will have the right to select certain players from the Vancouver roster at the end of the season."

Orioles have an option to renew the contract after the first season.

It will be Orioles' first agreement with a top-grade minor league team.

Jack Dunn, assistant general manager of the Orioles, said that under the one-year agreement.

Six AL Clubs Top Million

CHICAGO (AP)—Six clubs, the most in American League history, drew more than 1,000,000 fans as the circuit's great pennant race boosted total attendance to nearly 9,000,000 for the 1955 baseball season.

The official turnstile report of league president Will Harridge Wednesday showed that New York, Kansas City, Cleveland, Boston, Detroit and Chicago lured more than 1,000,000 home customers with the flag-winning Yankees topping the list with 1,490,138 or 14.967 million in 1954.

The league, drawing 8,942,971, showed a net increase of 12.9 per cent over 1954 or a jump of 1,020,607. The record of 11,150,099 was set in 1948.

Biggest increase was produced by the new Kansas City Athletics whose home attendance of 1,393,054 represented a whopping boost of 1,088,388 over the old Philadelphia Athletics of 1954.

All clubs made gains except Cleveland, 1,221,780, a decrease of 113,692; Chicago, 1,175,684, off 55,945; Baltimore, 852,038, off 208,871, and Washington, 425,328, off 78,304.

Five clubs drew more than 1,000,000 fans in 1946, 1952 and 1953. Only four did it in the record attendance year of 1948 when Cleveland established the club record of 2,620,627.

Pirie, Norris Beat Emil

LONDON (AP)—Britain's Gordon Pirie and Ken Norris Wednesday night ran the great Emil Zatopek into the ground on the last lap of a gruelling 10,000-metre race before a crowd of 36,000 at the White City Stadium.

Pirie, 10 years younger than the 34-year-old Czech army colonel, won in 29 minutes, 19 seconds. Norris finished second about 15 yards behind. Then came Zatopek—winner of four gold Olympic medals and holder of a long string of world records—a weak third 50 yards behind the elongated Pirie.

Pirie's time was well off Zatopek's world mark of 28:54.2, set last year in Brussels.

Zatopek was making his first appearance in Britain since 1948 when he won the 10,000 metres in the Olympic games at Wembley. He has been slowing down this year, but he still had enough to defeat Pirie in the 10,000 at Prague in the Britain vs. Czechoslovakia meet a few weeks ago.

BOY SCOUT ACTIVITIES

By FREEMAN KING

DISTRICT NOTES: At the Akela Council, Thursday, slides of the Jamboree were shown by Akela Winnie Lees. Tentative plans were made for a party to entertain the patients at Mt. St. Mary's Hospital.

All Rover Scouts are asked to take part in the orientation run to be held Oct. 23.

The district training team will hold a preliminary training course for Cub leaders starting on Nov. 7. The course will be held at 1034 Johnson Street.

Fairfield Rover Crew did a good service job by picking fruit for the surplus food stall.

James Bay, Tillicum and Wilcox Scouts spent the weekend camping and hiking at Sooke. Compass work, cooking and barbequing a salmon were some of the activities.

Sooke: Seven Cubs went up to the troop. Ken Cooke welcomed the boys on behalf of the scoutmaster, who was away through illness.

Robert Radford, Terrence Martin, Melvin Elrose and Murray Nixon received their second star. Allan Brooks, Bruce Eve and Richard Hamilton earned their first star. Jim Stewart was invested as a leader.

Deep Cove: The Scout troop is busy building patrol dens next to the hall. This work is being carried out under patrol leaders, who are proving that scouting is fun along the patrol lines.

ROYAL OAK: At the regular meeting on Friday some practical knotting work and observation tests were carried out in the dark with good results. Ian McPherson joined as a recruit.

There will be a special meeting of the group on Wednesday at 8.30 p.m. in the Scout Hall. All parents are urged to be there.

CHINESE GROUP: At the troop meeting held on Friday last some ambitious patrol stunts embodying first aid, lashing, advance knotting and map making were carried out by the patrol leaders.

Ken Yuen and Ron Marr received second class badges. Cyclist badges also went to Ken Yuen, Ron Marr and Art Lim. They were presented by the Scoutmaster. The group has completed registrations for the year.

On Monday evening the Pack and troop attended a picture show at the Chinese Consolidated School, Fisdard Street.

THIRD VICTORIA: At the regular pack meeting held Tuesday the Akela Winnie Lees presented Second Stars to John Allan, John Condon, Bjorn Berg, Earl Joyce, Millan Propuk, Paul Alexander, David Rasmussen, Peter Loudon, Swimmers badges went to Peter Loudon, Millan Propuk; 3rd year star to Peter Loudon, John Allan, Ralph Gustafsen, 2nd year star to Alex Green, Mel Propuk, Bob Goy, John Condon, Bjorn Berg, Earl Joyce; 1st year star to Peter Haegart, Bob Allan, Barry Grover, Mervin and Melvin Nelson, Paul Alexander, Ted Martindale, Brian and Bruce Bennett.

Patrol leaders from the Troop attended the pack meeting to meet the boys who will be going up to them next week.

ESQUIMALT GROUP: George Barr, district commissioner, attended the group committee meeting held on Thursday evening.

Scouters from the Pack and Troop gave reports on the activities of their units. An "apple" day will be held in Esquimalt on Oct. 22 and a paper drive is planned for November.

The election of officers for the year took place. A. Alger was named chairman, Mrs. C. Marryatt vice-chairman, Mrs. H. Lloyd secretary and Mrs. S. Mein treasurer.

Four new leaders were introduced to the meeting—C. McMiller, F. Fanshaw, Mr. Busard and Mr. Flood.

The retiring chairman, A. Bowker, thanked all those who had helped in any way with the Scout group during the past year, stating it was impossible to give proper training to over 80 boys unless help was forthcoming.

THE PROVINCIAL COUNCIL: will hold a meeting in Victoria on Oct. 18. Guest speaker is expected to be Lady Baden-Powell, widow of the founder of the Boy Scout movement.

SOMERSON GROUP: John Dirom and Howard Bell have been notified that they will receive parchment certificates from the Royal Canadian Humane Association for the rescue of Billy Davis from Somers Lake in 1953. These lads have already received awards from the Boy Scout Association.

PARKSVILLE GROUP: Scouts and Scouters attended the funeral of the late district commissioner Jack Twidale on Saturday. Scouter Jack, as he was known, will be missed. He was commissioner for the district for the past five years.

Seaway Competition Feared by Railways

MONTREAL (CP)—Canada's two law amendments for an even major railways said Wednesday.

The CNR said the railway "lives in competing with ships when the St. Lawrence seaway is completed.

In separate submissions to the royal commission on coasting trade, Canadian Pacific and Canadian National Railways called for federal

"The position of the water carrier serving the domestic market is not the same, however," the brief added. "Water carriers live only partially within a regulatory framework, and there are some whose wages and material prices are not related to Canadian price levels, and whose capital equipment is in effect, imported without being subject to the customs tariffs placed on other producers' goods."

The CNR recommended amendment of the Canada Shipping Act to require licenses for British ships operating in Canadian coastal trade, "sufficient to cover the differential in shipbuilding cost between Canada and Great Britain."

CHANGING TIMES, in both envelopes and advent of typewriters into business, are recorded in old Victoria Daily Times stationery in collection of G. E. Wellburn, Deerholme philatelist.

ADVERTISED CITY

Envelopes Record Of Paper's Growth

Old Victoria Daily Times envelopes that reach well back into the history of both the paper and the city are among the treasured possessions of Gerald E. Wellburn, Deerholme philatelist.

"Envelopes can't help but tell a story if you are interested in finding it," he said. "Everything about them tells something of the progress of the firm and its city."

He mentioned the texture of the paper, the typography of the signature, the bubbling optimism of their advertising messages, and styles in handwriting and typing of addresses.

Among them are the "cover from 1895 that featured a hand some engraved crest and cop perplate handwriting, the ornate effort of 1906 that illustrated all of Victoria's top-flight attractions, and the 1916 envelope with the picture of the Times Building that was "home" to the paper until 1951.

MODERN STYLE

The year 1922 saw both the most ornate of the firm's envelopes—that, advertising the provincial exhibition here—and the adoption of the smart, modified old English type of letter head that is almost identical with that in use today.

"The secret of good collecting is to make the collection tell a story," Mr. Wellburn said. "It's the same with stamps. Album after album of rare stamps locked away in a vault do not make a good collection, but good stamps, tastefully displayed in an album and described in an interesting way will produce a collection that will win prizes."

"They have a story to tell," he said, "and every effort should be made to see that it is told clearly and with interest." Although Mr. Wellburn lives only four miles from Duncan, at the headquarters of MacMillan and Bloedel Ltd. Shawinigan Division, of which he is super intendent, he is well off the beaten track where philately is concerned.

BEST IN WORLD

Despite the handicap, and distance from the big stamp markets, in 1951 he took top prize at the Canadian International Philatelic Exhibition in Toronto for his British North America (Canada to non-philatelists) collection.

The stature of the show being what it is, the victory meant that there was no single-group collection anywhere in the world to beat that submitted by Mr. Wellburn. Since then his interest in stamp collecting has waned somewhat, and he has confined himself to collecting historic Vancouver Island logging items and a library on the history of transportation, and taking an active part in the affairs of King's Daughters' Hospital and Duncan-Cowichan Chamber of Commerce.

Mr. Wellburn worked in the Times office from 1916 to 1921, then went into the woods. Eventually he became owner and operator of a logging and sawmill operation that was sold to MacMillan and Bloedel Ltd.

Mr. Wellburn worked in the Times office from 1916 to 1921, then went into the woods. Eventually he became owner and operator of a logging and sawmill operation that was sold to MacMillan and Bloedel Ltd.

It was decided to interview the B.C. Cement Company executive relative to property that might be used for the purpose.

"In the meantime we will make inquiries and keep our eyes open for suitable sites," said the reeve.

Permission was given John S. Turner to operate a summer boat rental service on the east coast on the understanding that the operation be confined to that business alone.

FLOATS NOT ALLOWED Council stressed that no wharves or floats could be built on the foreshore property.

George Outhwaite petitioned council for cancellation of the east end of Lisroe Road where it was claimed a house had been built partly on the road allowance. The matter was tabled pending legal advice on the closing of the road.

Council was advised by Mr. Warren that R. C. Oldfield had submitted an estimate of $1,500 to build a 24-foot road with ditching and culverts on Senanus road, the work to be done under local improvement plan.

Court of appeal on the schools by-law will be held in the municipal hall Oct. 21, at 8 p.m.

Island Digest

Victoria Daily Times THURSDAY, OCT. 13, 1955 13

KEEP FERRY SUBSIDY, GULF PETITION ASKS

PENDER ISLAND—Continued operation of the subsidized ferry service between here and Salt Spring Island and Swartz Bay is sought in a petition being circulated through North and South Pender Islands.

The present subsidy for the operation of Mv. Cy Peck on the route expires Dec. 1, and Highway Minister P. A. Gallagher has announced the government plans to call tenders for an "unsubsidized" service between Salt Spring and Vancouver Island.

A delegation representing all the larger Gulf Islands already has asked the government to continue the subsidy, and a second delegation is scheduled to meet with Mr. Gallagher Oct. 18.

Duncan Council Discusses Extension of Garbage Dump

DUNCAN—A plan to release from the Indian affairs department the reserve land used by the city as a garbage dump was suggested at a council meeting here by Mayor J. C. Wragg.

At present the dump is closed to all but city residents except on two afternoons a week when attendants are on duty to supervise dumping.

The government has appointed a committee to investigate financing of garbage dumps in unorganized areas. The city has asked for financial assistance if it is to keep the dump open for the benefit of unorganized areas.

Ald. George Highmore said there was land at the present site to last for 20 years. Mayor Wragg then said that if the land were released, "then we would be interested in opening the dump."

NEW SCHOOL PROGRAM CUT BY $25,000

SIDNEY—Projects to cost $25,000 have been cut from the proposed $715,000 school building referendum scheduled to go to School District 63 ratepayers Nov. 5.

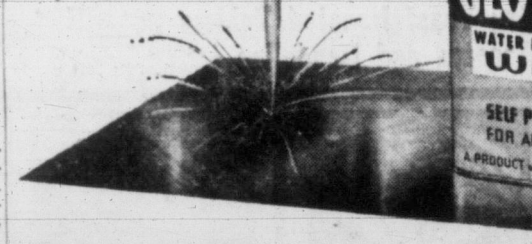

G. F. Gilbert, school board chairman, said that in the face of protests it was decided to cancel the construction of a $15,000 administration building and $10,000 maintenance building.

Cayuse Road Auto Accident Victims 'Good'

DUNCAN—Victims of the first auto accident on the Cayuse-Hopey-moon Bay road today were described as in "good condition," and likely to be discharged from King's Daughters' Hospital shortly.

They are Robert Evans and Ralph Mowatt, both of Cayuse, who were injured when the car in which they were riding Saturday night skidded on wet gravel and went out of control on a sharp curve.

Evans suffered facial lacerations and shock, and Mowatt was treated for back injuries.

Two other men in the car, Frank Macdonald and David Gilchrist, also of Cayuse, were uninjured. The car received little damage although it rolled over and landed on its wheels on the road.

Truck Rodeo Opens Friday In Vancouver

More than 35 professional drivers, including Vancouver Island representatives, will take part in the 1955 truck "rodeo" finals at Vancouver's Seaford Armouries Friday and Saturday.

The event has been arranged as part of the Automotive Transport Association of B.C. annual convention, that opened today. In the audience will be 300 truck and bus operators.

Contestants must have driven without an accident for at least a year before entering the contest. Driving ability, personal appearance, courtesy, and written tests will be used in the point score system of awarding championships.

Winners will compete against drivers from the rest of Canada in Toronto Nov. 21.

Honor GOC Members

TOFINO—Members of the Ground Observer Corps here were presented with wings and lapel pins at a meeting in the Canadian Legion Hall by FO. F. M. Hewitt from mGOC headquarters in Vancouver.

He also showed films of GOC activities in the Vancouver hinterland, where all reports are received and elsewhere.

This advertisement is not published or displayed by The Liquor Control Board or by the Government of British Columbia.

Island Towns Receive Gifts From Company

Community associations at Cayuse, Nitinat, Port Renfrew, Bear Creek, Harris Creek and Youbou will share in the $7,500 donated by B.C. Forest Products to aid community work in areas where the company has interests.

Grants are scaled according to the populations at the communities. Mainland centres also will share in the sum. Employee members of such associations pay monthly dues set according to the needs of each community, and organization and administration is handled by committees elected from the membership at general meetings. Programs range through the recreational and social fields with a community hall at each operation serving as the nerve centre of activities.

CPR Agent Relieved

TOFINO—F. W. Smith, formerly of Vancouver, has begun service here as CPR telegraph agent. He succeeds R. J. Colmer, who now is in Victoria.

Eaton's Employees Give $4,500

The Greater Victoria Community Chest received another substantial boost Wednesday when Gordon Rutledge, front and centre, representing Eaton's employees, gave a cheque for $4,500 to Vernon Ridgway, right, chest canvasser. Cheque was presented before audience of employees whose generosity made donation possible. On left is James Pollock, representative of employees' charitable committee which is supported entirely by payroll deductions.

AMBASSADOR'S SON TO BECOME CANADIAN

OTTAWA (CP)—Five years of life in Canada has convinced the eldest son of The Netherlands ambassador that his future lies in this country.

Hans Lovink, the diplomat's eldest son and now a student at the University of Western Ontario in London, has taken his first step to becoming a Canadian citizen. It will take five years but he thinks it will be worth the waiting.

Netherlands Ambassador A. J. Lovink, now dean of Ottawa's diplomatic corps, Wednesday confirmed his son's decision. He said he thought it was a "fine" decision.

ECONOMICS PROBE BEGINS MONDAY

By HAROLD MORRISON, Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—Five royal commissioners turn their stethoscopes on the Maritimes and Newfoundland next week to open the public hearings phase of the biggest economic probe in Canada's history.

Journeying by plane, the Gordon economic commission leaves here Friday to set up shop Oct. 17 at St. John's, Nfld., to hear how the fisherman-island feels about its economic future over the next 20 or 30 years; what its problems may be and how they can be resolved.

One of the first persons to appear before the commissioners, says chairman Walter L. Gordon, likely will be Premier Smallwood.

From Newfoundland, the five-man body moves to Nova Scotia for hearings at Halifax, Oct. 20; then to Prince Edward Island for a session at Charlottetown, Oct. 24; and to New Brunswick for a sitting at Fredericton, Oct. 26.

Then back to Ottawa for a brief spell to digest the Maritime findings before journeying into the west.

VICTORIA NOV. 28 The western leg of the commission's journey will begin at Winnipeg where sittings will open Nov. 14. It will be in Regina, Nov. 17; Edmonton, Nov. 21; Calgary, Nov. 24; Victoria, Nov. 28, and Vancouver, Nov. 30.

Sittings will be resumed after the new year with Quebec the first spot on Jan. 16, Montreal, Jan. 18; Toronto, Jan. 23, and then finally the round-up sittings in Ottawa, Feb. 13.

For four months, chairman Gordon has been busy building the foundations for the probe. Out of a nucleus of five senior economists, he's built a staff of about 25 research experts to shoulder the burden of delving and probing required in measuring the size of the economy 20 to 30 years hence.

OTHERS HELP He has also farmed out a lot of research projects to industry and labor. Two banks have volunteered to do work, along with the two major labor bodies—the Trades and Labor Congress and the Canadian Congress of Labor.

A Canadian insurance company, whose United States counterpart already has undertaken a similar job, has agreed to forecast the nature of Canada's automobile industry in the decades ahead.

Mr. Gordon dropped a hint that his was not just a job of measuring industry. It was people with which he was most concerned.

"The future will bring increased mechanization and that means more people will require skills to keep jobs. They've got to be trained. That may mean a need for more vocational schools, or alternatively more training on the job. I hope to hear more about this problem in our journeys."

The commissioners also will be measuring the need for more housing, roads, hospitals and other institutions. The key to all the measurements will be population.

In August the commissioners spent a week studying developments in the Arctic fringes of the northwest. However, they held no hearings during their tour which took them through northern Alberta and the Northwest Territories.

MISS BLUE Bomber WINNIPEG (CP)—Corinne Williams of suburban St. Vital Wednesday night was chosen Miss Blue Bomber. She will represent Winnipeg in the Miss Grey Cup contest at Vancouver next month.

Stay Out of Politics Truman Tells Legion

NEW YORK (UP)—Former president Truman said today the American Legion should have stayed out of politics and doesn't know what its talking about in condemning UNESCO.

"I'm the only ex-president who is a Legionnaire, you know, and I'm sorry to see the boys get themselves into politics, as they have no business doing," he told reporters.

Mr. Truman made the comments as he strolled around mid-town New York on his customary early morning walk.

The former president's comments were directed at action taken by the American Legion at its convention Wednesday in Miami. Members voted over-whelmingly to denounce UNESCO, the United Nations Education, Scientific and Cultural Organization.

The convention urged Congress to repeal the laws creating the United States commission to UNESCO. Increasing hostility to UNESCO has been evident among legion leaders in recent days.

Truman said, "the legion does not know what it's talking about. They've gone haywire in the last three or four years and don't know what they're doing."

"They're a bunch of fine kids. They fought for the welfare of this country and most of them knew what they were fighting for, but they seem to have forgotten about it now."

CONFIDENTIALLY YOURS

—by Byrne Hope Sanders

MONTREAL, October 13th—One of those simple precautions... that can save so many headaches, is the over-the-counter use of DRANO, the wonder product that opens clogged or slow drains fast and keeps them running germ-free and clear. Drano has a special churning, boiling action that dissolves and flushes away waste matter in drains... and prevents sewer gases from breaching. No liquid regularity. Costs about a penny a drain—for every drain. It's harmless to plumbing. Safe for septic tanks—makes them work even better! Get DRANO at grocery, hardware or drug stores everywhere.

Start The Hot Tap Running... pour in just one cup of GAY, the grand new concentrated liquid detergent... let the suds froth luxuriously... and it's high-bo! for a dishwashing routine that's more of a pleasure than you've ever known! That wonder-working detergent GAY has a very pleasant fragrance... and washes dishes, glassware, silver sparkling clean! You'll find it has extra grease-cutting power—yet is gentle on the hands. I've proved that GAY is very economical, too—won't you see for yourself? One bottle does fifty dish-washings. You get far more dishwashing satisfaction in GAY than in any other liquid or powder detergent.

It's Just About Now... that a woman smiles at her husband and suggests—"What about the storm windows, dear?" That means cleaning all the windows in the house as well. And that means Windex Spray. I find it by far the best and fastest glass cleaner on the market. So economical—and so easy. Windex Spray it on. Wipe! Wipe it off. Your glass is sparkling clean—leaves no waxy film; no gritty dust on the sills; no harm to your pretty hands. Windex is really wonderful for all glass surfaces! It costs so little. Get the handy 6 oz. bottle and sprayer or the economical 20 oz. refill size at grocery, hardware or drug stores.

Remember!... Next time you're shopping—be sure!—pick up several rolls of SCOTCH CELLULOSE TAPE. It's so useful to have it handy in various reach-me-quick corners of the house! In the kitchen for sealing packages of sandwiches or mending cookbooks; or wrapping parcels. In the man's workshop downstairs for a score of handy uses. In the children's rooms—for mending books, crayons, toys. On your own desk—for quick use. You'll recognize SCOTCH Cellulose Tape by its gay plaid dispenser, in stores everywhere. Transparent. Sticks-at-a-touch! Only 15¢ and 25¢. In the large economy roll—only 30¢.

Thank Goodness!... for modern ideas which make life so much easier—ideas such as the very finely trained Aymer Applesauce, Apple and Raspberry—minis that contain vitamins and minerals your precious baby needs... and that are so delicately flavored he'll really enjoy them! Meal-times can be such a joy and a satisfaction... when you know your babe is getting the perfect food—prepared just for babies. Certainly Aymer Baby Foods—purely Canadian products packed by a Canadian company—are the best you can buy. Economical too! Take home some of these Aymer Baby Foods today!

You Lucky People!... To be able to buy the golden goodness of BLUE BONNET MARGARINE... super-homogenized for smooth, easy spreading! Use it on your freshest bread—see how smoothly it spreads on each slice... even when it's ice-box cold! Use it for the fresh vegetables still so abundant... and, of course, in your cakes—cookies—pies! They'll be flaky—light—scrumptious! Blue Bonnet is made from pure vegetable oils and pasteurized milk with precious vitamins added to every pound. De Luxe foil-wrapped in convenient quarts... Blue Bonnet gives you "quality-plus-convenience". It's so good!

I've Always Believed... in the health value of a good breakfast for the whole family. That's why I'm so enthusiastic about BREX... the whole grain cereal with the extra wheat germ added. Most important of all—it has a delicious flavor most people like—that delicate, nutty taste that comes from wheat. Brex contains the precious B vitamins—and other essential nutrients for health. And it's so easy to give your family this pleasant breakfast treat—because you can cook Brex in three minutes! Look for the large box package—containing many other suggestions for serving this fine cereal.

Listen To Them... They're irrepressible! Cheery, chubby Mr. Chase and tall, good-looking Mr. Sanborn, hammering at each other on what makes INSTANT CHASE & SANBORN COFFEE so successful—so truly delicious! Mr. Chase is certain-are it's his wonderful brewing methods. "Brewing brings out the fine rich quality of the coffee beans," says he, beaming. Mr. Sanborn pounces on him. "Of course!—but unless you have the top-quality beans I insist on buying—how can you brew really fine coffee?" "Gentlemen—just a minute," I protest. "Bless you—you're both right! That's why so many homes are now serving your Instant Chase & Sanborn Coffee. See?"

Soviets Launch Bid for Poles

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UP)—Russia today launched an all-out campaign to win a seat for Communist Poland in the powerful U.N. security council.

Soviet deputy foreign minister V. V. Kuznetsov scheduled a rare press conference at which he was expected to make a final effort to gain enough votes for Poland to beat the U.S.-backed Philippines delegation for the council seat.

Observers considered the Soviet satellite country a definite underdog in the voting Friday to fill the seat left vacant by Turkey in the rotation system of non-permanent seats on the Security Council. Cuba and Australia are opposed for the other two seats.

U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr., said Poland had no claim to a council seat since it "is clearly not a nation which has contributed to international peace and security."

Polish delegate Juliusz Katz-Suchy, in a press conference Wednesday, accused the United States of violating, by backing the Philippines, a 1946 "gentlemen's agreement" that one of the non-permanent seats on the council should go to an eastern European country.

Lodge replied that the Polish

DREW IN HOSPITAL TWO DAYS WITH COLD

WINNIPEG (CP)—George Drew, National leader of the Progressive Conservative party, is confined to hospital here for two days with a slight cold.

He was ordered to rest Wednesday after undergoing a thorough examination by Dr. Lennox Bell of the Winnipeg General Hospital. Dr. Bell said Mr. Drew was ailing from congestion of the lungs caused by his chest cold.

Mr. Drew entered the hospital at 5 p.m. Wednesday. Hospital officials said today he had a "fairly good" night.

Talking Servicemen Face New Crack Down

Defence Minister Campney May Act On Carpenter Incident, Rumor Says

OTTAWA (CP).—Defence Minister Campney may crack down again on armed forces officers making public statements on government policy, informants said Wednesday.

The first crackdown came last June after Air Vice-Marshal John Plant publicly advocated in a Toronto speech that the army be scrapped to make way for a bigger RCAF. Plant was removed from his position as chief of RCAF technical services and made head of air materiel command, where he has nothing to do with tri-service policy.

The latest case arises from a statement made in Halifax last week by Air Commodore Fred Carpenter, chief of air operations.

He was quoted as saying that "our position is to make the Russians know we can knock hell out of them" and that the Russians militarily are 20 years behind the West.

CAUSED ANNOYANCE

Both the defence and external affairs departments were obviously annoyed at this statement. One official said Carpenter has not denied making the statement attributed to him.

The external affairs department was particularly embarrassed because External Affairs Minister Pearson was in the middle of a visit to Russia. An official described the remark as tactless and unnecessary.

After the Plant episode, Mr. Campney prepared a memo for the armed forces bringing to their attention the regulations forbidding public statements on government policy.

Because of the press of work, mainly defence department estimates, before the Commons, the memo was not issued.

MAY ISSUE MEMO

An informant said Mr. Campney now may issue the memo on his return from the current NATO meeting of defence ministers in Paris.

The defence department was also annoyed at Carpenter's reported statement that Sabre jet fighters being used by the RCAF air division in Europe will have to be replaced soon.

One official said it is general knowledge that the Sabres will have to be replaced eventually, but it was up to the government to decide when to do this.

The external affairs department has received a request from Mr. Pearson for a report on exactly what Air Commodore Carpenter said in the Halifax interview.

A garbled version of what Carpenter said was carried by Tass, Russian news agency, and this report was shown Mr. Pearson in Moscow by Soviet deputy premier Kaganovich. It quoted Carpenter as saying that Canadian fighter squadrons in Europe were poised for attack against Russia.

Carpenter denied making any such statement.

Vladimir Vashedchenko, Tass correspondent here, said his dispatch was "based" on the CP report from Halifax. He declined further comment.

IN CONTROVERSY—Air Commodore Fred S. Carpenter, chief of air operations, was quoted by the Soviet news agency Tass as saying Canada's air squadrons in Europe are poised for an attack on the Soviet Union. The report is said to have embarrassed External Affairs Minister Pearson, now visiting Russia. The defence department at Ottawa issued a statement at Ottawa saying the air commodore's remarks dealt only with the "defensive capabilities" of Canada's air strength overseas. See adjoining story—(CP from National Defence).

Big Railway Union Won't Join Merger

VANCOUVER (BUP).—Some 2,000 B.C. railwaymen will remain neutral when the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada and the Canadian Congress of Labor merge.

Chairman of the B.C. Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, Bob Casey, said his union will remain outside the merged bodies for at least three years.

He added though that the union will remain what he terms "friendly neutral."

The brotherhood has a total membership of some 20,000 throughout Canada.

He reported at his office and then left immediately to attend a cabinet meeting.

U.S. ARMY TAKES OVER PIPELINE

HAINES, Alaska (AP).—The $40,000,000 Haines-to-Fairbanks pipeline was formally turned over to the U.S. army here Wednesday.

The multi-purpose fuel line reaches across 626 miles of Alaska and Canada's Yukon territory to feed the air bases of Alaska's interior. The line, with its three pumping stations to keep the fuel moving, already is in operation.

Sailor Pays Fine After Crash Caused by Reach for Window Rag

A sailor, whose car crashed into a steel lamp standard while he was reaching into the glove compartment for a rag to wipe a steamed windshield, was charged in city police court Wednesday with careless driving.

Magistrate Henry C. Hall fined Bertrand Bemister, HM CS Ontario, $35 or five days in jail.

Police said the accused was driving east on Cormorant on Sept. 26 when his car hit the standard near Broad. Damage to the car was $150. Three other drivers were fined $35 each on the same charges.

Herta Bishop, 412 Dallas, pleaded guilty to a charge arising from a two-car accident Sept. 30 at Leighton and Bank.

Life-Saving Familiar To St. John Workers

BY TONY DICKSON

Many persons in this area owe their lives to St. John Ambulance workers.

In the mills, in the woods, on hand at accidents and in numerous other places where tragedies take place are the devoted and trained members of the local brigade. When physical disaster strikes they move in.

This will be only the second year here that St. John Ambulance has received assistance from the Community Chest of Greater Victoria. For every $100 collected in the current campaign, the organization will get $2.70 for its great work.

250 WORKERS

St. John Ambulance was organized in Canada in 1910 and the Victoria centre the same year. Today here it has a complement of 250 persons combining nursing, cadet and ambulance divisions.

Object of the association is voluntary giving of first aid to accident victims, those suffering sudden illness, together with teaching of first aid, home nursing, child welfare and kindred subjects.

Not only does the man-in-the-street benefit, but classes are also given in first aid to boys and girls, firemen, policemen, nurses in training, and training leading to certification as industrial first aid attendants.

At the last count covering 12 months, about 650 candidates in this area were successful in first aid examinations, and 200 qualified for industrial first aid. In addition, 200 more received basic first aid training in the civil defence program.

The ambulance and nursing divisions gave about 5,000 hours of free service at public functions such as sports, parades and other places where persons gather and sickness often hits. Last record showed in one year this group treated 326 cases while on public duty, and 34 cases off duty—St. John members just happened to be around in these latter instances.

16 POSTS

St. John maintains first aid posts at 16 points in the province, including one on the Malahat.

The association gives first aid junior text books free of charge for libraries of schools, for use in first aid training there. Latest figures showed 3,500 of these given out during the year throughout the province, with many going to schools of this area.

The offices of St. John are located at 715½ View, and with the exception of summer months are used five nights a week.

For the first six months this year, 900 local persons were trained in first aid.

BETWEEN TIMES

By MONTE ROBERTS

A feature piece in the Toronto Telegram puts up a spirited defence of the art of dawdling.

This surprised me somewhat, because I hadn't realized that dawdling needed defending.

I had been going along, blissfully unaware that the dawdle was in any danger.

But if the Toronto Telegram thinks dawdling needs defence, then I must spring into action, and make sure the readers of Between Times do not fail to appreciate the value of the well-executed dawdle.

Dawdling, as every school boy knows, is idling, or wasting time.

But to get the full benefit of the dawdle, you must understand what it is not.

Dawdling is not wasting time, or idling, by going to the movie or the ball game or watching TV or playing bridge.

These time-wasters are all deliberately planned. To waste time at the movies, for instance, requires careful preparation, not to mention physical effort, and is therefore not a true dawdle.

In the true dawdle, time is wasted unconsciously, without stress or strain either mental or physical.

Catching 40 winks after lunch cannot be classed as a dawdle, either. To catch 40 winks after lunch also requires a deliberate effort, and does not have the soothing mental effect produced by dawdling.

The value of dawdling, as every accomplished dawdler knows, is the peace of mind which follows in its wake.

Your mind, half-consciously, knows the dawdle being indulged in is keeping you from doing something constructive. And not doing something constructive is one of the greatest boons enjoyed by mankind.

Young people seem to have a better knack for dawdling than their elders. A perfect example of the well-executed dawdle is provided by the eight-year-old boy lacing his shoes prior to leaving for school.

Halfway through the first lace, his face goes lax, his jaw drops, he suspends all motion and a glaze covers his eyes. An eight-year-old boy dawdling is a joy to behold.

We older people, however, can find ways and means of dawdling. Personally, I dawdle best when I go to the dictionary to look up a word. I can quite easily dawdle for 15 minutes as a dozen or so OTHER words half-catch my attention and send trains of thought coasting downhill in leisurely fashion.

But I will not attempt to tell you how to dawdle. I have already said, planned dawdling is not dawdling in the true sense.

Please, however, stand by the dawdle. It is one of the bulwarks of humanity.

Show me a man who doesn't dawdle, and I'll show you a dangerous man. Shakespeare said it when he put these words in the mouth of Julius Caesar: "Let me have men about me who dawdle and sleep o' nights."

Mr. Mears is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Mears, 2600 Greenwood. He is a freshman majoring in geology.

Director of dental services for Canada's armed forces, Brig. E. M. Wansbrough, OBE, DCM, leaves Victoria for Ottawa after a three-day routine visit to service installations on Vancouver Island.

Twelve civil defence sirens in Greater Victoria will scream for a brief two seconds Saturday at 10 a.m. in a routine circuit test, CD co-ordinator Roger Peachey said this morning.

The blanket test will be limited to two seconds because of the many complaints following previous siren warnings, part of civil defence schemes. "We don't want to upset anyone," Mr. Peachey said.

Alfred Edmund Fredette, 102, Fernhill, was fined a total of $20 or six days in jail when he pleaded guilty in city police court today to two traffic charges.

He was charged with failing to carry motor vehicle registration in a conspicuous place in his auto and with having shields over headlights of the car.

In city police court Wednesday a fine of $15 was imposed on Hudson's Bay Company, 1701 Douglas, on a charge involving an infraction of a city closing by-law.

Court was told the offence occurred during an evening open house on Sept. 29, prior to a sale.

One mail order was accepted, to be delivered the next day.

A new office and trophy case now under construction in the main lobby of Memorial Arena is expected to be completed within a week or 10 days. The office will be available to hockey clubs, ice shows or other groups using the arena. Trophies won by local teams will be displayed there.

Registration of voters at City Hall is proceeding faster than at the same time last year.

So far 192 persons have registered for first time or re-qualified. Last year at same date, the figure stood at 122.

Some of these are in categories which must requalify each year, such as "spouses"—husband or wife of a landowner. There were only 62 new names added last year compared to 905 in 1946. In all, list totals 20,434.

Officials feel that most "spouses" do not realize they may vote, as the category was given the vote only last year.

Two Victorians have been elected to office in the Anglican Young People's Association of British Columbia.

Named vice-president is Sheila Martin. Recording secretary is John Genge.

Neil Robinson, of the Anglican Theological College, was elected president of the provincial council.

Eighty-five young people attended the conference at White Rock.

SHOPPING GUIDE

Whether Amateur or Not, You Can Arrange Flowers

By PENNY SAVER

I'm afraid my talents don't tend toward flower arranging. Mind you, I'd like to be able to create a centerpiece over which to "ogle" my dinner guests, or to arrange a bouquet so that it looks as if it hadn't been just thrown into the vase. But as I said, I can't or at least, couldn't until today. You see, I only just discovered a "bouquet" of Indian summer grass. These stalks and sprays are, in themselves, beautiful, natural arrangements. In the large cellophane-covered bouquet, are long and short sprays of grasses that have been gathered from Bapa, Calif. the mission lands near Carmel, the Pacific Ocean and the desert. They are in brilliant autumn colors.

There are golds, reds, browns and a bright shade of orange. Use them with mums and gladioli, or with fresh fruit arrangements over and over again. An armful bundle costs $3. Now, even I can come up with a charming arrangement!

Off on a completely different tangent, let me tell you about the pot holders I found. They're really different and new. Instead of a square or round pot holder that you wrap around the handles of hot pots or pans, these are tubular shaped. All you do is slip the tube over the handle and grip it. It's made of a nylon foam, heat-resistant material, in pink, yellow, blue or green. For the low price of 19 cents, you can afford to buy several.

Here's a note on some more rain boots for high school girls, and mother, too. These are for flat shoes, and come in white, black or brown rubber. The fronts have zippers, and around the tops is soft, cuddly bunny fur, dyed to match the boot. This style of rain boot has long been a favorite with teen-age, college and working-girl groups. They cost $2.95, while similar ones with slightly lower tops are $2.95.

Rubber boots with semi-heels, plain tops and zipper fronts are $5.65 in white and $3.75 in black.

Call me at 2-3131 and I'll tell you where to find the buys.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Yesterday I printed a quiz with true, false questions concerning weight reduction. Now, here are the answers. I hope your score is high!

1. True. Old people should reduce. The older they are the less they can stand the strains which overweight places on the body.

2. False. Lemon juice and vinegar will not reduce you.

3. False. Standing 15 or 20 minutes after meals will not help you reduce.

4. True. No one food is reducing. All foods have calories. Some have less than others but it is the sum total of the calories consumed each day which counts, and you should have a well-balanced diet. On a reducing diet you do, of course, leave off some of the high-calorie items which you do not need for health.

5. False. You only lose weight when your output in energy is greater than your intake in calories. Therefore, exercise is helpful because it increases your expenditure of energy but you cannot depend on it alone. It would be impossible to exercise enough to lose weight without dieting. Exercise also is valuable in that it increases tone and redistributes weight more attractively.

6. False. There seems to be no evidence that overweight is inherited. This seems to run in some families but one must remember that children inherit eating habits from their parents. Weight distribution can be inherited.

7. False. Most folks do gain as they grow older but this is undesirable. The glandular system slows down and physical activity decreases. Too often the diet is not cut in order to compensate for these factors and fatty deposits accumulate.

8. False. Overweight adds an extra risk to pregnancy. It makes toxemia more likely and adds difficulty to delivery. The pregnant woman should diet under the strict supervision of her physician. She needs a well-balanced and adequate diet but there is no need for her to acquire layers of fat.

9. False. Three meals a day are best for several reasons. In the first place, when the allowable food is divided into three meals the woman will not experience the hollowness and weakness which she would otherwise endure. Also, she is apt to overeat when she does eat. Then, too, three meals keep the metabolic rate higher for a longer period. Many women like to drink a glass of milk or fresh fruit juice for in-between meals.

10. False. Only the food we eat which is more than we need in energy requirements is stored as fat. There is no variance here. These women may eat small amounts but of the wrong kind of food.

Pink Hair Startles Guests At Fashion Show Luncheon

Flaming pink hair worn in a long page boy cut was a startling innovation seen at the fashion show and luncheon arranged in the Empress Hotel on Wednesday as entertainment for wives of delegates to the Loggers' Congress in Victoria this week.

Mrs. Berit Hammerlow, Vancouver, a fashion model from Norway, was the mannequin who presented the startling hair color with a flamingo tulle evening dress that complemented and almost matched the coiffure. Hair tint and style was the work of Vancouver stylist Arnold Young.

Many other startling style notes were presented during the show which was directed by Marie Moreau, Vancouver. Presentations were from collections

BRIDGE LESSON

By Oswald Jacoby

There isn't a good name in English for the end position in today's hand. Some experts call it by the French name "en passant" borrowed from chess, since South makes his trump "in passing." Whatever name is used, the play is very fine.

West opened the king of diamonds, and declarer won in dummy with the ace. At first glance South was very happy with his contract, although he had had misgivings during the bidding. Complications appeared later.

At the second-trick declarer led a trump from the dummy and won with the king in his own hand. He got back to dummy with the ace of hearts to lead another spade, and this time won with the queen of spades in his own hand. West's diamond discard was a disappointment.

South next led a club and finessed dummy's jack. East won with the queen of clubs and returned a diamond to make South ruff again.

Now South was down to the blank jack of spades, and East still had the ace-10. How was South to avoid the loss of two trump tricks?

The only hope was to cash all the side tricks and lead from dummy at the 12th trick. Hence South cashed the king and queen of hearts, followed by the king of clubs.

East had to follow suit to all of these plays, after which he was left with his two trumps. When dummy now led the last club, there was no way for East to shut out declarer's jack of spades. East could make only the ace of trumps, and South fulfilled his contract.

U.S. Nabs Smugaled Canada Nickel

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—United States customs agents at the International Peace Bridge Wednesday night seized a tractor-trailer from Canada carrying six barrels of nickel in a load of scrap metal.

Customs collector Harold Becker ordered the shipment and the truck seized after he said an agent spotted the high-tariff metal under the scrap. Authorities said the six barrels would be worth about $24,000.

Becker said the driver, who was not identified, denied knowing the nickel was aboard. He was ordered to appear today for further questioning.

The shipment originated in Toronto and was destined for Erie, Pa. Becker disclosed that an investigation of nickel smuggling on the Niagara frontier has been under way for about two weeks.

MULLIGAN TO QUIT?

He took exception to Mr. Tupper's interpretation of his duties as a royal commissioner.

2. The commissioner's private interviewing of what Gould called "de facto prosecution" witnesses. He referred to the two star witnesses, Det. Sgts. Leathdale and Cuthbert.

3. The commissioner intervening in the role of "de facto prosecutor attorney." He said the intervention in the cross-examination of Helen Douglas by the commissioner is consistent with the inquisitorial approach.

4. The presence of Mr. Roland Bowman on the commissioner's investigation team. Gould said Mr. Bowman, being a member of the same legal firm as the commissioner, made him an agent of the commissioner.

5. The use of leading questions which, said Gould, creates evidence in the mouths of witnesses. "Prompting witnesses' memories," said Gould, "is improper when the evidence is accurate."

6. The "hearsay evidence" by Cuthbert, which Gould said is likely to contravene natural justice.

7. The wide allowances given to certain counsel.

2 LAWYERS NAMED
Gould particularly mentioned Neil Fleishman, counsel for Ray Munro, and George L. Murray, counsel for Vancouver Magazine Service, as having been allowed to "stir-around issues which were no business of theirs."

8. "The special succor allowed this witness, Helen Elizabeth Douglas. At one time I believe the reason was 'because she was nervous and she was the assistance of Mrs. Lefebvre. Since then have witnesses under cross-examination been granted special privileges because they were nervous unless there was a doctor's certificate?"

9. "There has been hearsay upon hearsay upon hearsay upon hearsay... This gets into the press and it sticks. There's such a thing as trial by the press, and that it what has happened here."

10. Yesterday you (Commissioner Tupper) asked Det. Sgt. Leathdale what rumors he had heard around the police station in 1949. You asked him twice. I believe... and finally he answered. I do not believe that rumors should be allowed in and they should never be involved.

IN THE CESSPOOL
"My final reason and the straw that broke the camel's back, is the adjournment sine die which I would like to speculate means weeks and possibly months. My speculation is that the investigating team is trying to run down a conspiracy charge and they are not getting anywhere. The conspiracy charge, I would like to speculate, is the brainchild of an over-enthusiastic young prosecutor and a man who works in the very cesspool of journalism."

At this point Mr. Tupper interjected that it is "better not to comment on the investigating team. Neither you nor I know what they are doing."

Mr. Gould replied: "I would like to speculate that they haven't got their case finished."

Mr. Tupper: "I believe that is correct."

Mr. Gould referred to the period in the hearings when he and Tom Norris, Q.C., had asked for adjournments and were refused. This was at the time that Mr. Gould took over from Mr. Norris as Chief-Mulligan's counsel.

"There were 2,600 pages of transcript and I had 48 hours' notice. I asked for an adjournment which I felt was most justified. And I wasn't allowed one. And Mr. Norris wasn't allowed one, when he asked for an adjournment because of a family problem."

LUGUBRIOUS HOPE
"Now the RCMP investigating team is not ready and how much time do they get? Weeks, months in the ridiculous, lugubrious hope that they may stumble on something."

Mr. Gould said that if Mr. Tupper were to issue "an interim report tomorrow clearing Walter Mulligan, he would no longer be able to hold the position of chief of police."

"His status had been completely destroyed. If the principal reason we have been destroyed is the excessive allowance of rumor and hearsay and rumor and hearsay on top of that."

"I was aware of the gravity of evidence given by Cuthbert and Leathdale."

"But my client is left dangling in the public eye, dripping with the mud of rumor for months."

MONTY

Montgomery, who arrived in New York Nov. 2 for an eastern speaking tour, signalled some of his new controversial ideas in his annual lecture Wednesday to the Royal United Service Institution in London. The 29-page text is under study by U.S. military men, bracing themselves for next month's elaboration.

BITTERLY FOUGHT
The idea of merging the three armed forces under a single defence minister with a single chief of staff—which Montgomery advocated as a goal for all western nations—was bitterly fought and defeated in the late 1940s. Instead, the United States set up three separate departments—army, navy, air force—and created a defense department on top for supervision.

Montgomery said "the separate existence of the three services results, in every nation, in waste of money, waste of manpower and waste of time." He said it was "ridiculous to go on in this way."

He conceded complete merger of land, sea and air elements into one service may be for the "distant future." But he said the military services should at once be "closely integrated and gripped tightly at the top" instead of continuing as "not much more than a federation of powerful states," suspicious of each other, continually disagreeing and wrongly organized for modern times.

Montgomery, forecasting opposition from "service propaganda machines," called for service mergers on two major grounds:

1. Guided missiles and other modern weapons do not "fit neatly" into a three-service picture. They "tend to unify warlike operations." Ballistic missiles with nuclear warheads "shortly after" that, unmanned satellites.

2. Guided missiles and other modern weapons do not "fit neatly" into a three-service picture. They "tend to unify warlike operations." Ballistic missiles with nuclear warheads "shortly after" that, unmanned satellites.

TOWNSEND

King Edward VIII gave up his throne for American Wallis Warfield Simpson, dominated Britain's front pages today.

Townsend's face stared at curious Londoners from the morning papers. The beaming princess supplanted him in the afternoon papers.

Townsend's divorce, in which he was the innocent party, is debated in Parliament.

Funeral Service Held in Nanaimo For Totem Carver

NANAIMO—Funeral services were held at the Indian reserve United Church here Wednesday for Wilkes James, 84, widely known totem pole carver, who died Saturday.

His father was a chief, and he was born at Nanaimo River. His totem poles were sent as far away as England, and two of his finest were carved for Nanaimo city.

Mr. James also carved the poles that stand in Georgia park here, overlooking the harbor.

Rev. Peter Kelly, Haida Indian clergyman and missionary, officiated at the service.

H. D. D. Lawson, Nonagenarian, Dies at Sidney

Funeral service for Henry David Dale Lawson, resident of this area for almost 91 years, will be held in Sands' Chapel, Sidney, Saturday at 2 p.m.

Mr. Lawson, who would have been 91 next month, died Tuesday in Resthaven Hospital.

Victoria-born, he worked here for years as a harness maker, and for most of his life as an upholsterer on buggies and early cars. He retired 18 years ago and went to live in Sidney.

Mr. Lawson was a member of Victoria Lodge No. 1, 100F. He is survived by his wife, Ada, at the residence, 1891 Marine Drive, Sidney.

BONNER TO BLAME?
Editorial continues: "The attorney-general may have to acknowledge his own share of the blame. It seems to have been a case of too much haste in launching the inquiry without previous investigation of what might be involved."

"Had the attorney-general looked more carefully before he leapt, he might have ordered a different procedure to attain the same end."

"Mr. Bonner's duty is plain—to review and plan with the commissioner how quickly and sternly the hearings can be terminated and a report submitted."

Mulligan to Resign As Chief of Police?

Counsel Says Resignation Considered

Compiled From CP Dispatches
VANCOUVER — Police Chief Walter Mulligan will confer with John G. (Jay) Gould, his counsel, "in a day or two" on whether he should resign from the Vancouver force, the lawyer said today.

"The resignation is a subject that must be considered," Mr. Gould said. "It is Mr. Mulligan's problem but I will be there to advise him in any way."

He made the statement during an interview the day after he and the chief walked out of the R. H. Tupper royal commission on police affairs.

They quit in protest to an "indefinite adjournment" ordered by Mr. Tupper and to the commissioner's ruling that the married name of a key witness must remain secret.

Earlier Mr. Gould's cross-examination had uncovered the details of the love-life of the mystery woman, Helen Elizabeth Douglas.

The woman, who claims to have been chief Mulligan's companion for five years, last week testified chief Mulligan had told her he had $38,000 obtained from gamblers.

STATUS DESTROYED
In announcing chief Mulligan's withdrawal, Mr. Gould said the Tupper inquiry was a "1955 Spanish inquisition" which already has "completely destroyed" Mr. Mulligan's "status" as chief of police.

The lawyer declared his client was "prepared to stand trial where there are rules for evidence."

The chief, on requested leave for the duration of the inquiry, will receive pay until the end of October, when his case will come up for monthly consideration by the police commission.

He was unavailable for comment today.

Mr. Gould, in announcing the forthcoming meeting, said Mr. Mulligan "is still the chief of police of the city of Vancouver."

At Wednesday's 32nd sitting of the police inquiry, which opened July 13, Mr. Gould criticized Mr. Tupper's handling of the probe, and declared:

"If tomorrow you brought down an interim report, in which you cleared Walter Mulligan, he would no longer be able to hold the position of chief of police."

"His status has been completely destroyed. We are prepared to take our place in another forum."

2 HOUR GRILLING
Mr. Gould's statement, climaxing a two-hour grilling of Helen Douglas, said the inquiry was "contrary to natural justice" and listed 11 reasons for his opinion.

NO REQUESTS TO BONNER TO FIRE TUPPER

Attorney General Robert Bonner said here today "I have received no representations requesting I step in," when asked whether he would remove Commissioner Tupper.

"The commissioner has been appointed to do a certain investigation and as far as I am concerned the commissioner is still working on that report," said the attorney general.

He declined comment on all other factors of the commission, with the statement, "I have no comment on any aspect of the probe's proceedings."

Unions Merge; Giant CLC Due in April

TORONTO (CP)—No major differences on principle exist between the Trades and Labor Congress and the Canadian Congress of Labor, president Claude Jodoin said the two unions said today before the CCL's annual convention.

In a speech to the CCL following its ratification of terms of a merger with his congress, Jodoin said the only differences are on details.

The TLC said issues on which there are honest differences of opinion between TLC and CCL members should be left to the decision of the proposed Canadian Labor Congress, to be formed out of the two rival unions next April.

Formation of this congress, to be the largest union body in Canadian history with 1,000,000 members, became assured Wednesday.

The Canadian Congress of Labor made this certain Wednesday as some 900 delegates at their annual convention gave a standing reception to welcoming the Trades and Labor Congress into a unified organization.

The decision meant the two groups—the TLC with 600,000 members and the CCL with 400,000—will merge next April at a founding convention here of the Canadian Labor Congress, as the united organization will be known.

Tentative plans for the joint convention had been made before the CCL action following the other congress' endorsement of the merger last summer. The CCL's move cleared the decks.

A-G Urged To Wind-Up Police Probe

VANCOUVER — The Vancouver Sun, in a front-page editorial today, says Attorney-General Bonner should "take action to wind up" the R. H. Tupper royal commission on police affairs "as quickly as possible."

The commission adjourned indefinitely Wednesday to allow RCMP investigators time to complete their work and submit a report.

The adjournment touched off an explosive courtroom scene in which lawyer John G. (Jay) Gould, former Liberal MLA for Vancouver-Burrard, withdrew himself and his client, police chief Walter Mulligan, from further co-operation with the inquiry.

"Commissioner R. H. Tupper has provided all the reason Mr. Bonner needs with his announcement that the hearings are postponed indefinitely. This was all Mr. Gould needed to lose patience. The commissioner indicated the adjournment may last months. It is indeed the 'straw that has broken the camel's back' not only for Mr. Gould and his client, but for public opinion also," the editorial says.

"It should be enough for Mr. Bonner."

LONGER THAN EXPECTED
The newspaper says, "Commissioner Tupper has got himself involved in a public inquiry and a secret police investigation at the same time—a lengthier process than he had calculated."

"The probe was punctuated by a suicide apparently provoked by fear of personal muck-racking. Articles contemptuous of the commission have been sold in Vancouver and the perpetrators merely scolded."

"Subsequent publication by the same people with greater apparent contempt for the commission and ordinary public decency, attacked a leading counsel in foul fashion."

"The first defence by tabloid reporter Ray Munro, his refusal to admit authorship because he might incriminate himself, passed unchallenged and uninvestigated by commission counsel."

The editorial says hearsay had gone beyond limits and that

Pearson Sure Soviets Want Peace

KARACHI, Pakistan (BUP)—External affairs minister Lester B. Pearson said today he was satisfied that Russia does not want war.

One day after finishing his goodwill tour of Russia, Pearson summed up his impression of that country in the following words:

"My chief impression is one of national collective strength and energy. It is a country with a group of strong, able men in charge, with no other desire than to be left in peace to build up their country and solve their domestic problems of which they admit they have many." (See page 5.)

Ike Would Link Disarmament Plan to Russia's

Writes Bulganin Expressing Hope

DENVER (AP)—President Eisenhower, in a letter to Russia's Premier Bulganin, couples a formal United States offer to accept a Soviet military inspection plan with a new bid for the Eisenhower "pre-disarmament" program.

The note, made public by the Denver White House late Wednesday, underscored the continuing American hope that the Soviet Union eventually will go along with the Eisenhower proposal that the U.S. and Russia exchange military blueprints and agree on reciprocal aerial inspection.

At the same time Eisenhower reiterated that the U.S. is willing to combine his plan and the Soviet program with a view toward disarmament in the long run.

BULGANIN MISSES POINT
In a Sept. 19 message to Eisenhower—five days before the president was stricken with a heart attack—Bulganin found much fault with the Eisenhower plan first set forth at the Big Four "summit" conference in Geneva last July.

Making no mention of Bulganin's blunt criticism of his proposal, the president elected to take note of the premier's assertion that the Eisenhower plan was getting careful study by the Soviet high command.

"I am encouraged," Eisenhower wrote, "that you are giving full consideration to my Geneva proposal."

He formally renewed a bid to Russia to ally "fear and suspicion" by combining both his own and the Soviet plan for mutually checking on military installations and movements.

Eisenhower told Bulganin he had raised "a good many questions" in his Sept. 19 letter.

"I shall not be able to reply to them until the doctors let me do more than at present. In any event, a full reply calls for preliminary work by my advisers and this is actively under way."

Flesherton Library Gets 4 Books Back
FLESHERTON, Ont. (CP)—Four books taken from the public library and criticized by former reeve John Cooke as "obscene and anti-Christian" have been returned to the library.

The books, however, are not available to the public yet. Librarian Mrs. Margaret MacMillan said they have been defaced by pencil marks.

Romance Statement Imminent?

(AP and UP Dispatches)

LONDON — Peter Townsend paid a call tonight at the home of Princess Margaret, Clarence House. His visit strengthened belief that an announcement is imminent about their reported romance.

Townsend stayed an hour and 20 minutes.

Townsend went openly to the royal residence, fully aware that newsmen were on his trail and that his car with the red-and-white diplomatic licence plate was the most closely watched vehicle in London.

More than 100 reporters crowding round the palatial mansion saw Townsend enter just before 7 p.m.

QUEEN MOTHER, ALSO

Princess Margaret arrived at the house from her Scottish holiday this morning and Queen Mother Elizabeth arrived only an hour before Townsend.

Townsend was alone. The conference inside the residence held promise of word—one way or the other—to a waiting world on whether the couple will become engaged.

The slim 40-year-old group captain left the apartment where he is staying in Lowndes Square and drove his green Renault Fregate sedan across fashionable Belgrave to the rear of Clarence House, next door to St. James Palace.

Townsend knocked at the door of Clarence House and a maid admitted him. He stepped swiftly inside and the door closed.

POLICE GUARD DOOR
Three policemen paced up and down before the rear entrance to the residence, keeping the gathering crowds moving. Fur-hatted sentries stamped up and down the cobbled street of St. James Palace.

While newsmen, and the world waited, the mist of early evening began to clear and the stars could be seen twinkling through the overcast.

Earlier this afternoon Townsend spent some time with Mrs. John Wills, cousin of the princess and one of her most intimate friends.

FIRST IN TWO YEARS

So far as is known Townsend and Margaret had not met previously in more than two years, when the 41-year-old former royal equerry was posted to Brussels as air attaché.

Before that posting they met practically every day during a 10-year period.

Townsend went shopping this afternoon with Mrs. Wills, a daughter of Lady Elphinstone, sister of the Queen Mother.

He stayed all morning in the home of the Marquess of Abergavenny in Lowndes Square, London, where he had spent the night.

This afternoon, with police keeping back crowds of newspaper reporters and photographers, he left the house and drove away in a car. At its wheel was an attractive young woman, believed to be Mrs. Wills. He said he was going to his tailor's.

Townsend, 41-year-old war hero who now is British air attaché in Brussels, arrived by air Wednesday night to begin a three-week holiday.

Tanned, smiling and cheerful, the air attaché, a divorced man and father of two sons, gave hordes of reporters a curt "No comment" to all questions put to him on Princess Margaret, with whom his name has been linked for more than two years.

PAPERS SAY DIFFERENT

Archbishop Says English Church Must Defend Status of Marriage

LONDON (Reuters)—Dr. Geoffrey Fisher, Archbishop of Canterbury and Primate of All England, said Wednesday it is the primary duty of the Church of England to defend the status of marriage "by every means in our power."

Speaking before the full synod of the convocation of Canterbury, his statement came in reply to the Bishop of Exeter, Dr. R. C. Mortimer, who urged ecclesiastical tribunals for divorced persons who want their marriages annulled so that they can remarry in the Church of England.

The archbishop said he agrees with an archbishops' commission that a system of ecclesiastical courts would be top-heavy.

Bishop Mortimer said the commission argued strongly against setting up special tribunals to deal with cases of nullity and unconsummated marriages, and commented: "I do not find those reasons overwhelmingly convincing; on the contrary, I think them rather on the side of timidity."

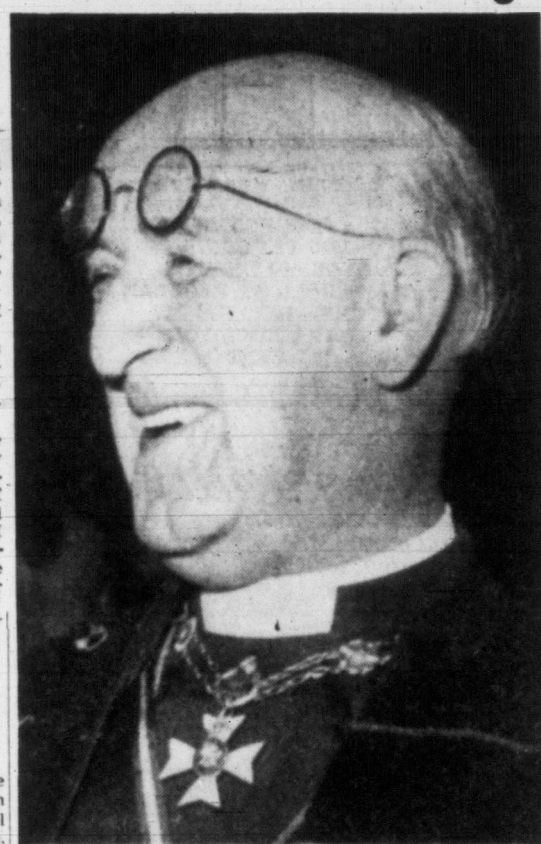

Professional Publicity Aid Challenged
DUNCAN, B.C. (CP)—The legality of employment of an advertising firm by the school board of District 65, Cowichan, is being challenged by the City of Duncan, said Mayor J. C. Wragg, who told councillors he had referred the question to the city's legal adviser.

The school board recently announced that it was employing a Victoria firm of professional advertisers to assist in publicizing a school loan by-law which calls for the raising of $750,000 for new schools. Cost of the services of the advertising firm was said to be $750.

Mayor Wragg said if the school board is going to spend money this week, "we will have to question its action." The councillors have expressed approval of the by-law but not for expenditures such as this, he said.

Adenauer Improves

BONN (AP)—West German Chancellor Adenauer, ill with bronchial pneumonia, is confining to improve, his doctors announced today. Government officials say he probably will require a long convalescence.

PRELATE'S REMARKS on the sanctity of marriage, made today in London, were given extra significance as Princess Margaret and Group Capt. Peter Townsend met for the first time in three years. Capt. Townsend was the innocent party in a divorce action with his wife. Photo of Archbishop of Canterbury was made during his visit to Victoria last year.

2,000 STUDENTS CLASH WITH BELGIAN POLICE

LOUVAIN, Belgium (UP)—More than 2,000 students clashed with police today in a riot over Belgium's bitter schools question.

The Mayor of Louvain declared a state of emergency and forbade gatherings of more than five persons.

Police reinforcements and tough-state troopers were brought into Louvain from other points to help the city police struggling with the battling students.

The riots was the latest in a series which have stemmed from a decision of the Socialist National government of premier Achille Van Acker to cut off public subsidies to Roman Catholic schools and transfer the funds to state-run schools.

He commented: "It is no virtue on my part. It happens that I don't like it."

Acorns May Drop Vancouver Move

VANCOUVER (CP)—The owner of the Oakland Acorns said today he is "seriously considering" keeping his Pacific Coast League baseball franchise in Oakland instead of moving it to Vancouver.

C. L. (Buck) Laws made the statement from his California home in a telephone interview. The statement followed city council's rejection Wednesday of a Sunday sports plebiscite, proposed for the December civic election.

$80,000 Bail for Drug Suspects

CALGARY (CP)—Bail totalling $80,000 was set today for four persons facing narcotics charges.

Bail of $20,000 each was set for Dennis McNaughton of Calgary, one-legged former stock car driver and Jack Fieldhouse of Winnipeg for trafficking in narcotics. Fieldhouse now is on $20,000 bail on a similar charge at Winnipeg.

Boy Held in Ball-Bat Slaying

VANCOUVER (CP)—A 16-year-old boy was held by RCMP for questioning in connection with the baseball-bat slaying of a young mechanic in North Vancouver.

David Crawford Williams, 20, was found early today on the living room chertfield in his home. He died a short time later in hospital.

RCMP found a blood-spattered baseball bat in the backyard of the house. They said Williams was clubbed while he slept.

The young suspect was picked up after he phoned police and told them where he was. Police said the boy will undergo a mental examination.

Star Import Quits Rough Riders

OTTAWA (BUP)—Star import lineman Ted Daffer quit the big four Ottawa Rough Riders football club today because of the "dangerous" morale situation among team players.

Earlier today, tackle Don King and quarterback Don Bailey were fired, and assistant coach Tom McHugh resigned.

RCN Ships Join Atlantic Rescue

THE HAGUE, The Netherlands (Reuters)—Three Canadian destroyers and several search aircraft were speeding tonight towards the 312-ton Icelandic ship Einar Olafsson, with 20 men aboard, which called for immediate help after springing a leak in her engine room in the north Atlantic. The Netherlands news agency said.

Aga's Hafiz II Outruns Darius

NEWMARKET, Eng. (UP)—Darius and Panalipper, the English and Irish thoroughbreds scheduled to run in the Washington D.C. International at Laurel next month, were both beaten in the same race today.

The event, the $5,000 Champion stakes run over one and a quarter miles, was won by the Aga Khan's Hafiz II with Roger Poincelot aboard. The three-year-old finished two lengths in front of Sir Percy Lorraine's Darius, ridden by Eph Smith.

U.S. Navy A-Jitter—
Monty's Due Again

WASHINGTON (UP)—Britain's peppery Field Marshal Montgomery is headed here again with a new explosive proposal — merge the army, navy and air force into a single military service.

The famed old soldier all but gave the U.S. navy apoplexy when he came here 11 months ago and told big audiences the day of large warships, specially aircraft carriers, was near an end. Recovering, navy officials began to defend and explain their carriers in a series of speeches still going on.

After all, the Viscount Montgomery of Alamein is second only to American Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther in command of North Atlantic Treaty forces and a close Second World War associate of President Eisenhower.

SEARCHERS SPOT LOST
FISHERMENSurvivors Being Flown to Vancouver

Three men, believed to be from a missing U.S. fishboat, were spotted on an island about 280 miles northeast of Victoria today by an RCAF search plane.

The men were spotted walking on a beach of the largest island in the Anderson group by a Canso aircraft. RCAF air-sea rescue headquarters at Vancouver reported to The Canadian Press.

A tug, the Sea Queen III, was sent to the island to remove the men to calm water, where they were to be picked up by the Canso and flown to Vancouver.

The 74-foot fishboat Joseph Balestrieri II, owned by the Buona Fortuna Fishing Co. of Eureka, Calif., has been missing since it radioed it was sinking after striking a submerged log in Milbank Sound early Tuesday.

The men aboard were identified as: Capt. Rudy Cloutman and Dick Cloutman of Cordova, Alaska, and Scott Armstrong, 50, whose home was at Langley, Wash., before he went to Cordova a year ago.

The fishboat was en route to Cordova from San Francisco. A life preserver believed to be from the fishboat was found Wednesday in stormy waters off the northern tip of Vancouver Island. Poor visibility hampered search operations by the Canso, an RCMP patrol boat and two commercial tugs.

As Chief of PoliceCounsel Says
Resignation Considered

Compiled From CP Dispatches

VANCOUVER — Police Chief Walter Mulligan will confer with John G. (Jay) Gould, his counsel, "in a day or two" on whether he should resign from the Vancouver force, the lawyer said today.

"The resignation is a subject that must be considered," Mr. Gould said. "It is Mr. Mulligan's problem but I will be there to advise him in any way."

He made the statement during an interview the day after he and the chief walked out of the R. H. Tupper royal commission on police affairs.

They quit in protest to an "indefinite adjournment" ordered by Mr. Tupper and to the commissioner's ruling that the married name of a key witness must remain secret.

Earlier Mr. Gould's cross-examination had uncovered the details of the love-life of the mystery woman, Helen Elizabeth Douglas.

Mr. Gould's statement, claiming a two-hour grilling of Helen Douglas, said the inquiry was "contrary to natural justice" and listed 11 reasons for his opinion.

A-G Urged To Wind-Up
Police Probe

Compiled From CP Dispatches

VANCOUVER — The Vancouver Sun, in a front-page editorial today, says Attorney-General Bonner should "take action to wind up" the R. H. Tupper royal commission on police affairs "as quickly as possible."

The commission adjourned indefinitely Wednesday to allow RCMP investigators time to complete their work and submit a report.

The adjournment touched off an explosive courtroom scene in which lawyer John G. (Jay) Gould, former Liberal MLA for Vancouver-Burrard, withdrew himself and his client, police chief Walter Mulligan, from further co-operation with the inquiry.

"Commissioner R. H. Tupper has provided all the reason Mr. Bonner needs with his announcement that the hearings are postponed indefinitely. This was all Mr. Gould needed to lose patience. The commissioner indicated the adjournment may last months. It is indeed the 'straw' that has broken the camel's back" not only for Mr. Gould and his client, but for public opinion also, the editorial says.

"It should be enough for Mr. Bonner."
